'MANGLED MONEY' MASSACRE

Constable, Wife

Six Children Dead

VANCOUVER (CP) — A family of eight was found shot to death Wednesday and police linked the massacre to a $1,250,000 "mangled money" robbery.

Leonard Hogue, 34, a Vancouver city police constable, his wife Vera and their six children—Larry, 13; Noreen, 12; Raymond, 8; Clifford, 6; Darlene, 5, and Richard, 3—were found dead, shot through the head with slugs from a heavy .357-calibre magnum revolver.

Said an RCMP spokesman:

"We are assuming for the present that the man shot the other members of the family and committed suicide."

The RCMP is responsible for law enforcement in the suburb of Coquitlam, where the bodies were found in the Hogues' neat, white, green-shuttered house.

Police said all the victims were clad in night attire except Hogue, who was partly dressed.

They said it appeared that the children were stalked through the house as they attempted to hide.

Mrs. Hogue's body was found in bed.

The shootings are believed to have occurred late Monday or early Tuesday. The blood-soaked scene was discovered by Vancouver policemen who called after Hogue did not report for duty.

One of the policemen said:

"It was a horrible mess."

Deputy Police Chief John Fisk said Vancouver said in a statement that Hogue was being investigated in connection with the Feb. 11 robbery of the Vancouver warehouse of Canadian Pacific Merchandise Service Ltd. in which $1,250,000 in defaced money—destined for destruction at the mint at Ottawa—was stolen. Three men—two of them armed—pulled off the robbery.

THIRD MAN

He said investigation of Hogue came about "in the light of the recent arrest of former Vancouver policeman Joseph Percival in Edmonton."

Police said a third man—a member of the Vancouver force—was still on duty—was also under investigation. Name of the third man was not released.

SEEN MONDAY

The Hogue family was last seen by neighbors on Monday.

A neighbor said they were "close, quiet family—good people who went to church and Sunday school."

Police had looked through a basement window and seen the Mass slayings Tuesday and Wednesday claimed a total of 25 lives in Canada and three American states.

A New Hampshire father surrendered to a minister Wednesday shortly after his wife and four children were found shot to death.

Police said an enraged New Jersey father loaded his family of 10 into his car at halfpast minutes before it crashed into a truck, killing eight.

STRANGLINGS

Authorities said they would file first-degree murder charges against an Indiana mother in the slayings of her four children.

In another apparent case of mass parricide, a policeman, his wife and their six children were found shot to death in their suburban home near Vancouver. Police called it a murder-suicide.

SHOT WITH RIFLE

In the New Hampshire slayings, Mrs. Janet Sargent, 30, and her children, Michael, 9, William, 8, Jack, 7, and Lynne, 3, were found dead in their two-story red frame home near the hill village of New London.

Each had been shot with a rifle. Jack Sargent, 36, former poultry farmer in training as an insurance agent, was taken into custody shortly after allegedly confessing the killings to a minister.

'I'M GOING TO KILL'

At Newark, N.J., police said Wednesday witnesses told them that Arthur Sherod, 37, became angry with his wife in a restaurant Tuesday night and announced, "I'm going to kill the whole family."

The witnesses said Sherod, an unemployed laborer, herded his wife, 37, a waitress, and their nine children into their newly purchased car and drove off.

EIGHT DIED

Minutes later the Sherod car swerved across a four-lane highway near the Newark airport and collided with a truck. Mrs. Sherod and seven of the children, Mary, 18, Annie Jean, 16, Jessie, 15, James 14, Johnathan, 8, Wanda, 3, and Kathy, 2, were killed.

Sherod and two other children, Charles, 12, and Dianne, 4, were seriously hurt.

RAZOR SLASHES

At South Bend, Ind., authorities said they would file a first-degree murder charge today against Mrs. Diana Hamby, 38.

Mrs. Hamby was in good condition in a hospital where she was under treatment for razor blade slashes in her ankles, wrists and neck which authorities said were self-inflicted. She was found in the burning Hamby home Tuesday by a friend, whom she had telephoned and purportedly told that she had "killed the children."

Steel Strike

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Contract talks aimed at averting a May 1 steel strike stalled Wednesday with no further meetings scheduled, and the industry issued preliminary instructions for shutting down the mills.

Union sources said strike authorization was expected today.

Viet Nam Crisis At Glance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington — Defence Secretary Robert McNamara announced increase to $300,000,000 from $207,000,000 in U.S. military aid to South Viet Nam in the fiscal year ending June 30. Money will help expand South Viet Nam's army and provide more firepower and helicopters.

Drifting Boat Found; Search Today

Cedar Boy Lost at Sea

NANAIMO (Special) — A full-scale search will start at dawn today for a 15-year-old resident of nearby Cedar who disappeared Wednesday afternoon while swimming after his drifting boat.

THREE

Terence Robert La Fortune vanished just after reaching the 14-foot outboard motorboat, which was found empty and still afloat a few hours later.

The search force will include district RCMP, the Nanaimo harbor patrol, the boy's father and Cedar residents—most of whom scoured the area until dark last night.

THREE

Police said they were advised young La Fortune and Sharon Salmark, 15, of Cedar Road in Ladysmith, went fishing off Cedar Wednesday afternoon in his parents' boat.

During the fishing expedition, the two decided to go ashore on DeCourcy Island, about midway in the five-mile stretch of water between Cedar and the Gulf Islands.

THREE

Soon after landing, they noticed the boat had drifted away from the shore.

Young La Fortune told the girl to stay on the beach and began to swim after the boat.

THREE

Police were told he had just reached the side of the boat when it drifted around a point not far from the beach.

Miss Salmark spread the alarm and the boat was found

River Rams La Crosse Rolls Into Illinois

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — The Mississippi River lay siege to La Crosse with an all-time record flood-stage Wednesday and sent a mighty torrent southward down the 400-mile chute leading from its upper valley to a rendezvous with the Ohio River.

While the soggy city of La Crosse braced itself for a three-day crisis, little cheered by word that the river had crested at 17.7 feet instead of 18 feet, northern Illinois and Iowa struggled to build up to the challenge.

At Quincy, Ill., where levees began cracking Tuesday with the river still more than a foot below flood stage, officials reported that wrecked cars, junk and sand dumped frantically into the breaches was reducing, at least temporarily, the invading flow.

MAY USE FORCE

In Iowa, Governor Harold Hughes said he was asking an attorney-general's opinion on whether state or local authorities could legally force evacuation of private homes.

Some 60 miles below La Crosse at Prairie du Chien, last Wisconsin community of any size on the river, 20 more families were evacuated from their homes, raising to 200 the number

U.K. Plans Known Monday

Go-Ahead Near For Steel Grab

LONDON (UPI) — The Labor government of Prime Minister Wilson will announce plans for re-nationalization of the steel industry on Monday.

Political sources said 12 firms will be named for takeover in a government White Paper. The firms form the major steel-producing part of the industry.

The old-fashioned idea of nationalizing the entire steel industry is out. Instead, the government plans to take over only the biggest and the best firms.

GIVES CONTROL

In this way, the government will gain control of 90 per cent of Britain's crude steel production and, therefore, almost complete control of the industry.

The cost of compensation to shareholders of the companies to be nationalized has been estimated by the Conservative Party at 2,000,000,000 pounds (or $5,600,000,000). The Government's opponents are expected to claim this can only be met by higher taxes.

EARLY VOTE

Wilson is expected to force an early vote on the proposals set out in the White Paper.

If the White Paper is not approved, Wilson will call an immediate general election, sources close to the government said.

The government has a majority of only three. Three Labor MPs are known to be opposed to "old-fashioned" nationalization, but government ministers believe party loyalty will prevail.

Printers Approve Contract

VANCOUVER (CP) — Printers on the Vancouver Sun and Province daily newspapers gave unanimous approval Wednesday night to a new three-year contract.

Their vote came after officials of the International Typographical Union (ITU) explained the package worked out last Friday with Pacific Press Ltd., publishers of both papers.

The settlement came with a strike threat hanging over final negotiations.

body of one of the girls lying on a blood-stained chestfield. Another girl's body was found in the basement; the body of a boy was found in a bathroom. Another was found in the doorway of a closet.

Two other boys were slain in their beds.

Hogue was found lying on the floor beside the bed where his dead wife lay.

The only living thing on the premises was the family dog. Deputy Chief Fisk said police had been investigating Hogue, a nine-year-old son of the force, "for some time."

A fellow policeman described Hogue as a nice guy. "He was the last guy to worry about anything. If anything happened, he laughed it off."

EIGHT, NINE SHOTS
Police, peering together the shooting, said eight or nine shots had been fired from the gun, found by Hogue's body.

Hogue, a native of St. Boniface, Man., joined the Vancouver force in 1962.

He served in the patrol division until 1963, then was transferred to the city jail detail.

Fisk said Hogue's work had been considered satisfactory until the recent investigation.

Hogue was the second officer of the city jail squad to be shot in the last five months. Constable William Ryce, 42, also LONDON — Ex-tank sergeant Paul Daniels' private "anti-Red" British army will be offered to President Johnson to help out in Viet Nam.

And, just in case the president is not interested, Daniels is placing his volunteer force on offer to any government battling against the "Communist menace."

Daniels, 49, decided to write to President Johnson after the Congo government rejected the volunteer force he had collected through a newspaper "personal column" advertisement.

"Most of the men on my recruits are motivated by wanting to fight for democracy against Communism," said Daniels. There are 700 of them, from ex-majors to local councilors. Any country in danger of being overcome by the Communists can apply to me."

'ACTIVE SERVICE'
Daniels, a special constable and a Red Cross worker, began collecting his forces with an advertisement which read: "Ex-service volunteers, all ranks, required for active service in the Congo."

He says that before he inserted the advertisement, he had met Congolese officials in London and Gen. Joseph Mobutu, the commander-in-chief of the Congolese army, in Brussels.

SON HANGED

In 1959, the bodies of Raymond Cook, his wife and five children, were battered and shot to death near Stettler, Alta. In 1960, Robert Raymond Cook Jr. was hanged for the murder of his father.

"I was motivated by love for my country and for democracy," said Daniels, who is married and has four children. "I got 700 volunteers after the advertisement. And then the Congolese charge d'affaires in London, Joseph Kambamba, asked me to meet him. "He talked about pressure from African states, and told me it was best for me to give up

The stop signs on Main Street went under water Wednesday and Red Cross headquarters continued its week-long retreat of a block a day as the river advanced.

Red Cross and civil defence officials said about 35,500 persons had been forced from their homes by floods or the threat of high water in the six-state mid-western flood zone.

IS DEAD

At least 13 persons had died in the torrents. Damage was nearing $100,000,000 and expected to mount daily into next month.

The Mississippi was pounding at its dikes along a 500-mile front from eastern Minnesota to western Illinois. Many of its tributaries also were on a rampage.

Floodwaters crept slowly into the southern Manitoba community of Emerson Wednesday as volunteers and soldiers worked to protect the town against the threatening Red River.

the idea. I'm afraid that the Congo business is off."

But, said Daniels, he had his 700 volunteers ready and willing to fight.

"That's why I'm writing to the president, and why I'm willing to hear from any governments threatened by the Chinese or the Russians."

Your Good Health

Several Diseases Combine To Cause Farmer's Lung

By JOSEPH MOINER, MD

Dear Doctor: What about "farmer's lung"? Does the condition have anything to do with emphysema?—MRS. W.M.

Farmer's lung is a term applied to a number of conditions, which may or may not be associated with emphysema.

Actinomycosis and histoplasmosis are two that belong in the farmer's lung category, although these diseases do, of course, affect other people, too. Both are fungus infections. Some doctors strongly suspect that until fairly recent years the two were confused quite often; today there is a great deal of interest in "histo" and many cases are being found.

Farmers are exposed to considerable dust, which may be earth, plant materials, fungus, or molds.

INFLAMED AREA

A good many cases of farmer's lung are what, in a city, we would call pneumonia, or a patchy inflamed local area in the lung. In the farmer's case, some foreign body, or particle (perhaps one of the various kinds of dust), appears to be in this inflamed area, and thus is presumed to have started the irritation.

Scar formation from these patchy areas, or from other forms of irritation, accumulate as one attack follows another. If enough of them occur, a substantial amount of the lung will thus be scarred or damaged.

AIR SHORTAGE

At that point we have emphysema—a condition in which the lungs cannot expel sufficient air with each breath, and in consequence cannot admit the full amount of fresh air which should be inhaled. If you can't get rid of the old air, you don't have the space for new air.

Thus you see that farmer's lung is not just one disease. It can be a combination of several, with accumulated damage finally interfering substantially with breathing.

The answer, naturally, is to do whatever is possible or necessary (quit smoking), to get the most benefit from such lung capacity as remains, and to keep further damage from occurring.

Dear Dr. Moiner: I suffer from frequent headaches. Some people say that if you drink milk, it will cause them. But I like milk.—W.B.

If headaches were as simple as drinking—or not drinking—milk, nobody would have any more of them. Occasionally a headache pattern is caused by an allergy, and once in a great while the allergy is caused by milk, but most of the time the headache is not from allergy, and even when it is, there are thousands of other things to which some people can be allergic.

As for milk—well, just quit drinking it for two weeks or a month. That will show whether it has anything to do with your trouble. I doubt that it has.

Dear Dr. Moiner: Last June I had my first child, and she was a breech birth. If I have any more children will they also be born this way?—MRS. L.M.

There is no way to predict. Some women have a succession of breech births—four in a row, so far as my memory goes. Other women have only one such delivery and the rest are normal.

Nazi Party in Toronto

TORONTO (UPI) — Heel-clicked, arms swung in a "Heil Hitler" salute, and a Nazi party was organized in Toronto Tuesday night for the first time since 1938. Three Toronto men held an organizational rally to coincide with the 76th anniversary of the birth of Hitler. Spokesman John Beattie, a 23-year-old customs clerk, claimed the party has 47 members in the metro area and "several thousand" financial supporters. Some 18 persons attended the meeting at the Societ Credit Action Party headquarters where coin dealer Neil Carmichael predicted a Fascist revolution would occur in Canada. He claimed a military training camp had been established in Northern Ontario and was training 45 companies of young Jews annually in a bid to "take over Canada."

A Rude Blow

THE INCREASE of more than 17 per cent in the school tax rate in the Greater Victoria district for 1965 has come as a shock to the community, which was anticipating a rise as usual but not of this proportion.

Mayor Wilson's attitude toward the rude blow probably is one that most taxpayers will resignedly adopt: that although this is a most unpleasant surprise, "we have to face up to the facts of life and realize that education is a costly business and must be paid for."

There is the triple consolation too that the $15 addition to the home-owner grant this year will in most cases take care of the higher school levy for ratepayers in this category, although the effects for business and perhaps for occupants of rented accommodation will not be thus offset; that a substantial increase in the provincial per-capita grants to municipalities is helping to keep rates for municipal general and debt purposes lower this year than they would otherwise be, and, for what it is worth, that the Greater Victoria school rate (as in rural Saanich and Sooke districts) is below the provincial average.

Nevertheless most taxpayers will once more be sharply reminded that what the government giveth, the government taketh away. Not always to and from the same pockets, however. And it can well be argued that the sharing of school costs between the provincial treasury and the local property owners is not yet as equitable as it might be.

The biggest single component of the extra cost to be borne by the property owners, it should be noted, is the bill for teachers' salaries in excess of the standard and recognized by the government as shareable. It is a good principle that local luxuries in the field of education, above and beyond what is prescribed throughout the province, should be paid for by the local taxpayers.

But it is difficult to see that salary scales set by arbitration, and over the levels the school trustees are willing to pay, are in any sense a local option. This is one important area where it seems wrong that the education department refuses to pick up its share of the tally.

Day to Remember

ON THIS DAY just 50 years ago Canadian soldiers, fighting as a divisional unit for the first time, by a display of tenacity, battle skill and courage, checked the ponderous German thrust that had been planned to envelop Ypres.

By coincidence, April 22, 1915, was another Thursday, and it was on that sunny afternoon that the German army first employed poison gas as a weapon of war with dreadful effectiveness.

A massive gas-cloud was released against French colonial troops, from Morocco and Algiers, on the Canadian flank. It was a strategically sound move, for the African battalions were not of a quality to resist this strangling weapon, followed up by masked infantry in masked ranks. The French line broke, and eventually created a four-mile gap through which the attack poured towards its objective.

It was the Canadian division's still raw troops which, supported by Imperial Army regulars, stepped into this breach and, accepting terrible casualties, broke the advance.

Victoria's 16th Battalion, along with other Scottish-Canadian units, won distinction and honors on that first day of the Second Battle of Ypres. It was the 16th along with the 10th, mainly a Northwestern Alberta battalion, which stormed into Kitchener's Wood in a fierce counterattack that not only carried the position but recaptured the guns lost to the Germans, and which had been turned against the Franco-British lines.

Earlier in the day, the Little Black Devils of Winnipeg had climbed out on their parapet to meet the charging German infantry, in spite of the gas which had seriously crippled them. In fact, that act of courage—their leap from the gas-choked trench with the bayonet—probably helped them survive. For they not only stepped out of the poison cloud but broke the attack at that time in hand-to-hand fighting.

It was a long and terrible day, in a long and costly battle. But it was a day the Canadian Army will always remember—along with the days of Festubert, Cambrai, Passchendaele and all the rest.

It is a day on which Canadians should honor the memory of the men who fought, so many to die, before the ruins of Ypres.

Chance for Authors

IN ANNOUNCING a program of assistance for Canadian authors up to an aggregate of $200,000 to encourage a literary contribution to the program of centennial celebration, Mr. Maurice Lamontagne, the secretary of state, will cause a flutter of excitement in many an ambitious artist.

The Centennial Commission Publications Assistance Program, to give the scheme its official designation, is designed to illustrate how the Canada of the federated provinces came into being, and to provide a literary legacy which will be a "constant reminder of the centennial of Confederation."

The plan will be applauded in many quarters.

Problem for the writer will be to convince the commission that a need for his particular objective exists; that he has the ability to implement his plans; and, above all, that there is more than a reasonable chance of getting the material accepted for publication. Established writers, obviously, will have an advantage; and so will those who have ready access to the publishers. Locally, we are a little short of such institutions.

However, one or two local publishers have had success with several publications and they might be encouraged to try to make arrangements to participate in the commission's scheme. Certainly there is a considerable variety of material, colorful and exciting, a whole pageant of the west, so to speak, waiting to be recorded.

Books on ethnic and regional histories are to be encouraged by the planners, as are the histories of the arts, biographies and collections of historical documents.

Grants will not exceed $5,000 each. But that is a substantial incentive to the industrious.

For those who are interested in the commission, which is working with the Canada Council and the Canada Foundation, has promised to advertise its project widely. Meanwhile, anyone wanting detailed information can write to "Publications Program," the Centennial Commission, Box 1967—appropriately enough—in Ottawa.

Famine Threat Grows

UN May Lead Major Battle For Birth Control

By LOUIS B. FLEMING, from United Nations

The secretariat of the United Nations is completing work on a report which will set the stage for a more aggressive role in birth control by the world organization.

The report will summarize the conclusions of the 13th session of the Population Commission, which ended earlier this month on a note of urgency and controversy.

The urgency was clear when the director-general of the UN Food and Agriculture Organization warned that famine lies ahead unless there is dramatic progress in stabilizing the world's population.

The controversy centred on the first major UN technical assistance program in birth control that has just finished its work in India. The significance of the controversy lay in the fact that only four of the 18 population commission members voiced any criticism of the precedent-setting Indian project.

Foremost among the commission's recommendations was a demand that all of the UN agencies take a more active role in solving the population problem. This is expected to receive a strong endorsement from the summer session of the UN economic and social council in Geneva and may lead the next general assembly here in September to make available more money for the population program.

Almost certainly, the United Nations will move from a narrow specialization in population statistics to a broad program embracing five priorities recommended by the population commission:

- Fertility research.
- Mortality and morbidity studies.
- Internal migration and urbanization studies.
- Studies of the effect of population growth on economic development.
- Studies of the effect of population growth on social development.

But, even more significant is the commission recommendation for expanding the scope of technical assistance in the population field to governments at their request. That means help in family planning and birth control, among other things.

The pilot project in India served as a lightning rod for the commission on the question of extending technical assistance at the request of a member state. A six-man team had been sent to India for the express purpose of speeding up family planning work in India's desperate struggle to slow down its population growth.

The only challenge to this first major U.N. technical assistance program in birth control came from the delegates of Austria, The Netherlands and France, all influenced by the traditional position of opposition to the Roman Catholic Church, and the Soviet Union, which has had difficulty applying the traditional Marxist hostility to present-day population problems.

With this surprisingly small opposition, the commission was able to authorize the preparation of a report calling for more of the same.

Commission proceedings produced some surprises.

Some of the surprises stemmed from a survey being conducted to determine the views of member governments on the interrelationship of population with economic development.

All of the more developed countries answering the poll indicated no serious concern about the population problem. But most of the developing nations responding indicated that population growth is a serious problem.

Among the developing nations, however, there was a variety of responses. Ireland, for example, is troubled by depopulation. Liberia indicated no problem. Venezuela was, like many, ambivalent while countries like India, Jamaica, Turkey, South Korea, Tunisia and The Philippines reported serious population problems.

These actions were taken in the face of grim warning from B. R. Sen, director-general of the food and agriculture group, who linked population stabilization for the first time to the world anti-hunger campaign.

It will not be enough merely to expand acreage and improve agricultural production technically, Sen told the commission. Famine and widespread disaster are a certainty unless population stabilization takes place, he said.

BACKGROUND

Escalation Planned?

By TED SELL, from Washington
The army has quietly taken steps to provide a base which could support a large-scale U.S. military buildup in South Viet Nam.

Although billed as part of what Ambassador Maxwell Taylor called a general "tidying up" of logistics activities in South Viet Nam, the creation of the new unit—the 1st Logistical Command in Saigon—goes beyond mere clearing away of tangled support jurisdictions by establishing a headquarters which can support a greatly expanded U.S. troop commitment.

Only a handful of staff officers were involved in activation in Saigon of the unit, which formerly was based in Texas. The officers are specialists in various supply, communications, transportation, medical and military police problems.

It has been revealed that "several thousand" additional U.S. soldiers, mainly in logistics units, are to be sent to Viet Nam this year.

The basic logistics command, with a minimum of specialist units under it, is intended to support battle needs of a reinforced division. Addition of a few more specialist units and a slight enlargement of the headquarters staff sections makes it capable of supporting a three-division corps.

Attachment of still more specialist units enables it to support a full field army or entire theatre of operations.

Elephants Give Clue to Battle

By EDWARD NEILAN From Saigon

Heavily laden elephants seen recently crashing through Viet Nam jungles have tipped off a possible new Viet Cong tactical move.

According to eyewitnesses, the elephants were carrying at least a dozen 75 mm. pack howitzers. These are the same type that surprised the French at Dien-bienphu and eventually led to the French defeat in that historic battle of 1954.

There are expectations that the Communists will try for a big military victory on the ground before sitting down to negotiate.

The Viet Cong needs a "big win" to offset the spectacular U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam. Some observers believe the Viet Cong have chosen Da Nang as the Dienbienphu of this war. There now are 8,000 U.S. Marines in the Da Nang area. A battery of eight-inch howitzers, capable of firing either conventional or tactical nuclear shells to a range of 14 miles, is the latest U.S. combat unit to arrive at Da Nang.

With the introduction of U.S. motorized and Red "elephant-drawn" artillery, a full-scale conventional warfare battle for Da Nang might be taking shape.

High and Fast

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The giant XB70A experimental bomber reached 59,000-foot altitude and 1,500-miles-an-hour speed Tuesday on its highest and fastest flight to date. The craft is designed for a top speed of 2,000 miles an hour and more than 70,000 feet altitude.

Subversives Trained on Hainan Red Base Revealed

By SUNDAR RAJAN From Bombay

For the first time, there is what appears to be credible information about a major Red Chinese military and subversion base.

A top Indian government publication gives, in its latest issue, a startling picture of developments on Hainan island in the Gulf of Tonkin. Peking has been fortifying the island for the last seven years as an important military and ideological springboard for the subjugation of Southeast Asia.

The Indian and Foreign Review, published by the Indian Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, says that a hectic buildup is now going on in Hainan. Recently an up-to-date air base was set up in the island.

Red China's South Sea fleet is also based on Hainan Island.

Repeating reports circulating in diplomatic circles for some time, the Indian government publication discloses that Hainan has also been turned into "a secret base for infiltration into the countries of Southeast Asia."

Trusted overseas Chinese and disgruntled elements from a number of African and Asian countries are trained in subversive techniques in a number of schools in the island.

According to the journal, the training they receive includes, among other things, guerrilla warfare and "manoeuvres in tropical jungles." Only such "cadres" whose loyalty to the Chinese Communist Party is absolute are assigned to the island.

These official disclosures by an Indian agency are regarded by political and diplomatic circles here as highly significant against the background of growing Chinese subversive activity in Thailand, Malaysia, Burma and along the eastern frontiers of the India-Pakistan subcontinent.

What worries Indian authorities is the possibility that Red China may be training subversive agents in Hainan with an eye on intensifying Communist activity in the border regions of Assam, Nagaland and Bengal in eastern India.

The Indian press reported recently that a "secret circular" from the Chinese Communist Party has reached Indian Reds.

The circular is said to outline Chinese plans for a "Peoples' Republic of Bengal" which would include the Bengali-speaking areas of both India and Pakistan.

Bengali-speaking India and Pakistani Communists are known to be under "training" in various guerrilla camps in Red China, including the ones in Hainan.

A Malaysian source told me last month that some of the Indonesian guerrillas operating in the Borneo jungles had undergone an intensive three-month course in Hainan.

Surprisingly Strong

Peking Air Force Shows Its Teeth

CNS, from Hong Kong

Those anonymous experts who have been saying that the only kind of war Communist China could fight is ground war, involving massive numbers of troops, may have to eat their words.

The recent engagement in which Communist MIGs pounced on U.S. F-105 Thunderchief jets and shot two of them down shows that the Red planes cannot be counted out.

According to the best estimates available here, there are about 3,000 aircraft of varying description that bear Red Chinese markings. This includes 500 navy planes.

This makes the Peking air force the third largest in the world after the United States and the Soviet Union.

The Nationalist Chinese Review of Communist Affairs says that Red China has no less than 15 factories engaged in aircraft and aircraft parts production. One plant, located in Mukden, Manchuria, has a capability of assembling 30 MIG 17 jet fighters each month, according to the publication.

The article says the Chinese also are "trying to produce MIG 19 and MIG 21 models."

The Chinese have been successful in reproducing Russian model machine guns and recoilless rifles. There is no reason to doubt their capacity to build a MIG 17 or MIG 19. The only operational MIGs that Americans have identified positively are the older MIG 15 and 17 models.

Western sources have acknowledged that an aviation factory in Peking produced Russian Yak 18 propeller fighter planes beginning in 1954, then switched to manufacturing jet trainers at a rate of 10 each month starting in 1958.

Informed Western sources in an Asia intelligence estimate stated that there are 30 Communist Chinese MIGs based around Hanoi today. The largest operational grouping of MIGs is on Hainan Island.

By shooting down the two supersonic F-105s, the Chinese demonstrated that tactics can make up for technological advantages. In this respect they employed in the skies the same tactics the Viet Cong guerrillas use on the ground.

The F-105s were ambushed from out of the haze much the same as government forces in Viet Nam are ambushed by light mobile Viet Cong who usually carry inferior weapons.

The Communist guerrillas are choosing their own battlefields, their own working hours. By employing these same tactics in the air, Red Chinese planes could cause even more embarrassment.

On paper, the Communist Chinese air force looks puny. But the scoreboard on aerial engagements in Southeast Asia to date reads two confirmed supersonic U.S. Air Force planes shot down by MIGs to one claimed MIG.

Eileen Whitehead hands Dave a wrench

Star of Autorama Covered with Chrome

Roadster's Glory All Reflected

By JIM BRAHAN

"Canada's most beautiful roadster" will make its debut Friday at Victoria's Quarter-Milers car club's eighth annual Autorama.

A 1929 Model A Ford roadster, owned and built by Dave Whitehead of 240 King George Terrace, was completed in eight weeks especially for the Autorama as the show's feature car.

More than $2,000 worth of chrome plating has gone into the 1,950-lb. vehicle. About the only parts not chromed are the tires and upholstery.

STORAGE SPACE

A teakwood camper attachment, which is too small to be used for sleeping purposes, will be used as storage space for clothing when Dave and his wife Eileen are travelling.

Dave won the Hot Rod of the Year award at Oakland, Calif., in 1963 with his roadster known as the Jewel.

The Jewel won 15 best of show awards at automobile shows throughout the western U.S. and in B.C.

HEAD SOUTH

After the Victoria show, Dave and Eileen will head for California to make a two-week tour of U.S. shows.

"This is the only car I know of built completely for show purposes that will be driven from show to show throughout the circuit," Dave said.

This fall the Whiteheads plan to put the roadster on exhibit all across the southern states, work their way up the eastern coast and finish the tour off in Montreal and Toronto.

ENGINE IN REAR

A three-wheeled prototype turbine-powered dragster named Miss Demeanor will be another feature of the Quarter-Milers' show.

Weighing only 400 pounds, the $15,000 car built by Marlowe Treit of Portland, Ore., differs from other dragsters in that the engine is in the rear and the driver is seated in the middle of the machine.

A 1962 Chevrolet, which won the people's choice award at a recent Oakland roadster show, and said to be worth $10,000, will be displayed by Jim Murley of Oxnard, Calif.

CAR RAFFLE

During this year's Autorama, a 1957 V-8 stick-shift Chevrolet will be raffled off, but the raffie winner must answer a skill-testing question to claim the prize.

The Autorama will be open from 6 to 11 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday at the Esquimalt Sports Centre.

University Fees May Jump to $500

VANCOUVER (CPI)—The possibility of a jump to $500 for average fees for students at the University of British Columbia and Simon Fraser University was raised Tuesday.

Fees at both universities now are listed at an average of $375. UBC announced Tuesday that it was increasing fees for summer session students—many of them teachers upgrading their qualifications—by one-third.

A statement by president John B. Macdonald said that while the university was raising fees for summer students, "no decision has yet been taken on the very sensitive matter of winter fees."

Some university sources said Tuesday's UBC announcement indicates that winter fees will be boosted one-third to an average of $500 to keep them in line with summer fees.

Simon Fraser, which is due to open this fall in suburban Burnaby, has said its fees will be the same as those at UBC.

Hunted in Lifetime—Rejected in Death

KELOWNA (CPI)—William Russell Spears, who in life was the object of a week-long police manhunt which ended when he shot himself, has been rejected by relatives in death.

Officials said Wednesday that relatives of the 59-year-old saw-mill worker police sought for the murder of an RCMP constable, have advised they will not assume any responsibility for his body.

The body now is in custody of Ross Oatman, provincial government official administrator. No arrangements have been made for burial pending an inquest.

The inquest will not be held until Beverly Charest, 17, whom Spears was charged with attempting to murder, recovers from a jaw wound suffered in the April 10 shooting affray at a remote cabin in which Constable Neil Bruce was fatally wounded.

Scots to Mark Ypres Date

The Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) will mark the 50th anniversary of the battle of Kitchener's Wood with a drumhead service at Albert Head Military Camp, Sunday.

The Kitchener's Wood battle was part of the vast struggle around the Ypres salient.

Attending the service with the Canadian Scottish will be surviving members of the regiment who took part in the battle.

once again to find a home for his dreamed-of maggot farm — a maggotorium.

Murgett runs the London Bait Company of Ealing, and earlier this year he appealed against the refusal of Buckinghamshire County Council to let him set up the farm in Bledow to supply the maggot needs of Britain's keen anglers.

Hundreds of villagers joined the protest. Murgett said he searched many years for an isolated site to breed angling worms because of the horror with which most people viewed his calling.

Finally the minister of housing and local government announced his decision. It was no because of an unsatisfactory site and the fact that waste from the maggotorium was likely to cause an offensive smell.

Prince Andrew, 5, Gives Queen Daffodil for Her Birthday

LONDON (CP)—The Queen celebrated her 39th birthday Wednesday free of official engagements and with her family gathered around her at Windsor Castle, some 25 miles west of London on the banks of the Thames.

Prince Philip, 44, was home to share the birthday celebrations after a long series of trips abroad. Also present for a quiet party were the four royal children—Prince Charles, Princess Anne, Prince Andrew and baby Prince Edward — the Queen Mother and the Queen's sister, Princess Margaret, with her husband Lord Snowdon.

Five-year-old Prince Andrew stole the scene in a series of charmingly informal birthday photographs published in the British press. One picture showed him gallantly presenting a daffodil to his mother.

The Royal Family spent the birthday, as always, in strict privacy, but the usual morning ceremony of changing the guard at Windsor was given a special touch by the regimental band playing Happy Birthday To You and Here's a Health unto Your Majesty as the Queen and her children watched from a window in the battlemented castle.

Britons do not formally celebrate the sovereign's birthday June—this year June 12.

Banff Stages Recovery

TORONTO (CPI) - The stock exchange struggled through a day of lower prices in all sections and decreased interest in speculative and junior oils.

The oil list, the favorite of speculators in recent sessions, fell pennies in most issues. Banff Oil rose 35 cents to $8.90.

In the main list, CPR, Dominion Bridge and Edson each fell 1/2 to 64 1/2, 28 1/2 and 28 1/2, respectively. Blodell fell 1/2 to 37 1/2.

B.C. Telephone dropped 1/2 to 69. Toronto-Dominion Bank gained 1/2 to 66 1/2.

In senior metals Inco fell 1/2 to 95 1/2, Hudson Bay lost 1/2 to 74 1/2.

Nickel Firm Hits Jackpot

By HARRY YOUNG Colonist Business Editor

International Nickel Company of Canada has just completed its biggest quarter on record. Henry Wingate, chairman of the giant mining company, told shareholders at the annual meeting Wednesday the firm made $37,000,000 ($1.25 a share) in the first three months of 1965.

Previous best by International Nickel was in the quarter ended June 1964 when the net earnings per share were $1.22.

In the first quarter of 1965 they were $1.18 a share. Sales of copper, iron ore and platinum continued at "very high levels," said Mr. Wingate, while deliveries of nickel in March created a monthly record.

LOW POINT EAST
Western Pacific Products and Crude Oil Pipelines Ltd. increased its daily deliveries of B.C. petroleum products by 2,000 barrels a day in the first quarter of 1965.

Douglas Owen, president, said at the annual meeting that it appeared Western Pacific reached its low point in the last quarter of 1964.

With new oil discoveries in B.C. and a successful secondary recovery program in producing fields, the pipeline throughput is increasing steadily, said Mr. Owen.

He expected second quarter deliveries will increase by another 3,000 barrels a day to approximately 32,000 barrels a day. "By the end of 1965 we expect we will be handling a higher throughput than at any time since the starting of the pipeline, and indications are that the flow will continue to climb during 1966."

TO CLEAR DEBT
New privately-placed financing is reported by Interprovincial Steel Pipe Company. It consists of $5,000,000 20-year first mortgage bonds. The funds will be used to eliminate debts and clear the Saskatchewan government of its guarantee on the company's bank loan.

NINE TO REOPEN
After being closed for six years owing to flooding, the Potash Company of America's mine near Saskatoon is expected to be reopened this week.

The mine was opened in 1959, but water started seeping through and it was closed again late in 1959. It has cost about $10,000,000 to bring it back into production.

The Potash Company's mine and mill was the first in Canada to produce potash, but now there are two other companies producing in Saskatchewan.

NOTHING OWING
Interest payments will be brought up-to-date April 30 on the income debentures of two eastern Canadian mining companies.

They are the six per cent debentures of Mattagami Lake Mines Ltd. and Orchan Mines Ltd. Mattagami will pay $14.50 per $100 debenture representing 29 months' interest, while Orchan's payment of $13 represents 26 months' interest.

SETTLEMENT SOON
Probuild Ltd. (formerly Building Products) hopes to make a final distribution of between $1.60 and $1.70 to shareholders who accepted the offer of Imperial Oil for their holdings last year.

Probuild, now a subsidiary of Imperial Oil says tax clearances have delayed the final calculations.

No Questions Asked So Banks Say: The Loss Is Yours

MONTREAL (CP) — As far as the banks are concerned, safety deposit boxes are merely space in a "normally safe place" rented to customers on a no-questions-asked basis.

For this reason, they accept—with one exception — no responsibility if the contents of safety deposit boxes are damaged or stolen.

The exception, as explained by bank spokesmen here, is "a definite case of negligence."

ONUS ON USER
If it can be proved that the theft or damage could have been avoided by greater diligence on the part of bank officials, it may be possible for a safety deposit box user to collect damages. The onus of proof, however, is squarely on the box user.

The issue of bank responsibility for safety deposit boxes arose again the weekend of April 10 when thieves broke into a Royal Bank branch in Montreal and looted 400 boxes in what police said might be a $1,000,000 robbery.

Bank spokesmen said the conditions governing the rental of safety deposit boxes were "clearly outlined" in the agreement signed by each box user.

NORMALLY SAFER
These agreements show that it is really just a rental arrangement, said one bank official. "We provide space in a bank vault which normally is a safer spot in shore valuations than could be found in the home."

NO QUESTIONS
"But we don't know what's in these boxes. We never question box holders on this point. On this basis, any insurance is up to them."

What the bank does promise in its safety deposit leases is reasonable diligence in protecting them.

Seiner Men Dead

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Supreme Court declared Tuesday that the captain and one crew member of the seiner Combat are legally dead.

Mr. Justice J. S. Aikins granted petitions from the families of Capt. Olaf Sayer and crewman John Leland, in order that estates may be settled.

The Combat, with a total of seven men aboard, disappeared last month in a storm enroute from Jedway, in the Queen Charlotte Islands, to Prince Rupert.

The five other crewmen were Gunnar Morim, James Kelly, Harold Dahu, Wally Leighton and Hans Lehman.

Why did Rambler start building big convertibles?

To prove big convertibles don't have to rattle.

Most of those big beautiful convertibles have one thing in common: they rattle. And no wonder—they fairly bristle with bolts! Their bodies are bolted, their frames are bolted (we wouldn't be surprised if their bolts were bolted). Put cars like that over a rough country road and just listen to those bolts complain.

It took Rambler to answer those complaints. How? We don't use bolts. Our big beautiful convertibles have a single-unit, all-welded body and frame... a concept pioneered and developed by Rambler. What gives? Nothing. So nothing rattles. And new Uniside construction makes doors sit tight—even they can't rattle. Although advanced construction is reason enough to look into an Ambassador convertible, there's more to it than that. This flagship for Phase II of the Rambler Revolution is larger, more luxurious than any other Rambler before it. And now there's a wider choice of engines available, from the all-new Torque Command Six to a mighty 270 h.p., 4-barrel V8. More options than ever before, too—72 of them, from disc brakes to bucket seats. And don't forget all the famous Rambler quality features: Deep-Dip Rustproofing, Ceramic Armoured Muffler, Double Safety Brakes, Reclining Seats and all the rest. There's one more reason to buy an Ambassador convertible: fun! If you want all you can handle, you want an Ambassador. Or, you can have your fun and budget too, with the sporty compact American—the lowest-priced Canadian-built convertible. (This one's rattle-free too!) # U.S. Increases Viet Nam Aid To Build Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced Wednesday a step-up of nearly one-third in United States military aid to Communist-embarked South Viet Nam for expanding its army and backing it with more firepower and helicopters for mobility.

China Scorns Peace Talks

TOKYO (AP) — China Wednesday scorned a 17-nation appeal for unconditional talks to end the war in Viet Nam.

The Chinese said the United States has transformed South Viet Nam into a Fascist-ruled colony that must be destroyed.

The official People's Daily said the 17-nation appeal "completely caters to the interests of U.S. imperialism and has become a shield in the hands of the Johnson administration to ward off worldwide condemnation of . . . U.S. crimes of aggression."

NEW YORK — Charles Schulz, creator of the daily and Sunday comic strip Peanuts, was named the first two-time winner of the National Cartoonist of the Year award. He was "cartoonist of the year" in 1955.

U.S. assistance to help combat the Viet Cong guerrilla will be increased from $207,000,000 to $330,000,000 for the current fiscal year which ends June 30, McNamara told reporters at the White House.

The defence chief had just briefed President Johnson on the high strategy conference on Viet Nam, concluded in Hawaii Tuesday.

McNamara told reporters that U.S. air attacks on North Viet Nam have damaged the morale of the Viet Cong forces and have slowed—but not stopped—infiltration into South Viet Nam.

Rusk added that evidence of morale problems in North Viet Nam has been found in captured diaries and despatches.

McNamara commented that there were 126 defections in one week, the greatest number so far, with most of them hardcore North Vietnamese. He added that he didn't want to indicate, however, there are defections in droves.

STEP UP ATTACKS

The defence secretary had mentioned earlier on his arrival from Honolulu that American air and sea action against North Viet Nam would be stepped up. The U.S. 7th Fleet has been helping spot Communist junks sneaking in supplies, which the South Viet Nam navy has captured or destroyed.

Bombers Hit Roads, Rails

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese warplanes Wednesday pursued a campaign to make travel in North Viet Nam as hazardous as that on the Viet Cong-embarked roads in South Viet Nam.

Trucks, trains and boats were among the targets on the ninth consecutive day of sorties over North Viet Nam.

He said it will extend the plan to other areas and ultimately to the whole island if animosities abate.

Goans' Problem Real Nettle

VANCOUVER (UPI) — An international nettle involving two Commonwealth nations was tossed into the hands of Canadian immigration officials Wednesday when four Goanese seamen left ship and sought political asylum.

The seamen are from the former Portuguese province of Goa, annexed by India in 1961. The Goans, all Portuguese citizens, are members of the Commonwealth.

Regional immigration director Lyall Hawkins informed the Portuguese consul in Vancouver—Dr. J. C. Valadas—that Canada did not want to alienate India, a fellow Commonwealth country, or offend Portugal . . . "another friendly country."

Mr. Hawkins agreed to allow the Goans, all penniless, to remain temporarily in Canada until arrangements could be made to send them to Portugal. "We must treat them as seamen signing off a ship. They

Cadets Given Taste Of Tough Sea Life

A group of 30 island and mainland sea cadets got a stronger taste of life at sea than they bargained for Wednesday.

The cadets, chosen from 80 attending training in Esquimalt during Easter school holidays, left for a voyage to Port Alberni aboard the navy's training yacht HMCS Oriole and an 80-foot harbor craft Tuesday.

They were evenly divided between the two vessels, and the plan was that they would switch vessels during the voyage.

THE SHIPS The two ships put in at Port Renfrew for the night.

Wednesday morning high seas and adverse weather prompted the navy to call off the voyage and order the two vessels back to Esquimalt.

Then the Oriole's engine broke down.

So the order was "all hands to the muzzes-top" and the 15 cadets unfortunate enough to be aboard prepared to take the coming ordeal like the "tars" of old.

The two vessels pitched and rolled their way to Esquimalt Wednesday night, the Oriole with dead engines, and half-dead sea cadets, but all sails proudly filled.

The cadets are from Port Alberni, Comox, Nanaimo, Campbell River, Vancouver, Duncan and Kamloops. They leave for home Friday.

How long would your savings last if disability stopped you from working?

One month? Six months? You probably have insurance to cover crippling medical expenses, but what about loss of income for the time you cannot work? Where will the money come from to keep up payments on your home, your car, your furniture? It has to come from somewhere.

Why not let Manufacturers Life give you an income while you are disabled? It's as simple as that. Here is why our Personal Income Protector Plan is worth investigating.

1. It offers you wide flexibility in amount of income and the length of time it will be paid if you are disabled.
2. For example; you may be able to arrange for income benefits right through to age 65 for total disability due to sickness or for life when an accident is the cause. Accidental death and dismemberment benefits to age 65 are also offered.
3. You can co-ordinate the plan with your other resources; tailor it to your needs and your pocketbook.
4. Manufacturers Life cannot cancel the policy nor can your premium rate be raised—ever.
5. The plan can be set up to put emphasis on long term income benefits and to overcome the inadequacy of any short term coverage you may already have.

If you'd like to learn more, call your Manufacturers Life representative. He'll be glad to give you all the details.

1964: year of progress for Air Canada

Improved service; lower fares, and increasingly efficient operation: all helped Air Canada achieve a 4,000,000 passenger year.

This was a period of gratifying traffic growth and continuing consolidation of the airline's economic position.

The year produced a net income of $1,405,575, so sustaining the recovery begun in 1963. This was the eleventh annual profit in the last fourteen years. Income before interest expense totalled $12,886,833. In addition to interest payments of $11,481,258, a dividend was declared for the first time since 1948.

Out of the year's earnings, Air Canada paid $3 per share on the 50,000 outstanding $100 par value shares of issued stock, leaving a credit of $1,255,575 to earned surplus.

1964 marked the 25th anniversary of the commencement of the airline's first regularly scheduled transcontinental service. It is fitting that this anniversary year was the one in which the airline took measure of its international stature, and adopted the more fully-descriptive name AIR CANADA.

Four million passengers

Lower trans-Atlantic passenger fares were introduced early in 1964, and these contributed to a marked increase in international travel. Economy class family fares were introduced on North American routes for the first time. With the head of the family travelling at the full economy class fare, all other accompanying adult members may travel at 75 per cent of the regular fare. These fare reductions helped increase the total passengers carried by 6% over 1963—to a new high of 4,189,349.

The carriage of goods grew even more remarkably. Air freight tonnage expanded 29%, while air express shipments increased by 17%. Behind these figures lies an aggressive air freight sales program by the airline, backed by the ability to provide one-day cargo service between points as far apart as Vancouver and London, England.

The volume of domestic air mail carried by Air Canada rose by 13% in 1964, to an all-time high of 12,818,000 ton miles. Significantly, the average rate per ton was reduced to 80¢, the lowest ever recorded in Canada on any airline. This compares with the $1.45 per ton mile rate in 1951—the first year of the all-up mail contract between Air Canada and the Post Office Department. The rate of expansion was even greater on international routes, which accounted for most of the increase in mail revenues.

Growth without borrowing

Air Canada was able to continue financing its growth from current resources for the third successive year. Final payments for its DC-8 fleet, and progress payments for the new DC-9 aircraft on order, were all met without recourse to outside borrowing.

As the year closed, Air Canada was operating an all-turbine fleet of 78 aircraft: 16 DC-8 Jets, 23 Vickers Vanguarda and 39 Vickers Viscounts.

The new DC-9 aircraft will come into service in 1966. Eight of these jets have been ordered for use on short-to-medium routes within the airline's North American services. Each DC-9 will carry 72 passengers at more than 550 miles per hour, bringing jet convenience to many inter-city routes.

Outlook

As Canadians become increasingly aware of the advantages of turbine flight—and of the commercial opportunities in the air freight distribution of the things they buy or sell—1965 promises to be another year of expanding opportunity. The airline's plans for increased flight frequencies and improved schedules have been conceived so that this growth will be matched by efficiency and high standards of service.

Vikettes Basket Queens

MONTREAL — The University of Victoria Vikettes added to the stature of Vancouver Island basketball Wednesday night by winning the Canadian junior women's championship in a thrilling finish.

The Canadian title was the second to be won by a Victoria team this season. Earlier, the Victoria Chinooks captured the Canadian men's junior crown.

BANNER YEAR

And, the Alberni Athletics won the Canadian men's senior championship and Oak Bay high school the B.C. prep title, making it a banner year.

The Vikettes won the hard way over the Hamilton Kittens Wednesday, defeating the favorites twice, once in the afternoon, then again in the sudden-death final at night.

CLOSE CALL

In the afternoon contest, Victoria edged Hamilton 41-40 by scoring six points in the last 105 seconds.

Then in the sudden-death thriller, the Vikettes exploded for 18 points in the fourth and final quarter to defeat the Kittens.

DOUBLE STAR

Centre Mary Coutts, a tower of strength under the boards, was the star of both games, scoring 29 points in the final to go along with 16 in the first game.

Mrs. Coutts scored the winning field goal late in the game, rebounding a shot by Sylvia Campbell into the basket for two points.

ANOTHER HEROINE

Miss Campbell was also a scoring star for the Vikettes, counting 15 points in the first game, including four free shots in the dying moments, and nine points in the final.

The victorious Vikettes will arrive at Sidney Airport at 1:25 this afternoon.

Another Miracle Needed If Leafs to Survive

By JIM TANG

If Victoria Maple Leafs can play 60 minutes of hockey Saturday night like the last 15 minutes they played last night they'll give Portland Buckaroos the chance to win or lose the Lester Patrick Cup before their own fans.

Taking advantage of a sloppy start by their injury-hampered opponents, the Buckaroos made an early 3-0 lead stand up for a 3-2 win before 3,877 Memorial Arena fans last night.

It gave the Buckaroos a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven Western Hockey League final — and the Leafs the chance to pull off their last miracle of the season. They again need three in a row, two on foreign ice, to prevail. The series resumes Saturday night here, and there is a good chance that the Leafs will have junior star Paul Laurent here to fill in for one of the two injured centre-men, probably Milan Marcetta.

BELOW PAR

And Laurent is needed. Marcetta was obviously hampered by his bad knee and Larry Keenan, who had been expected to sit out as late as a couple of hours before game time was also below par.

Nor was that all. Goalkeeper Al Millar had to miss his second game in a row and defenceman Sandy Hucul, playing despite a painful foot hurt, got another jolt in the same spot and although he managed to finish out the game is hardly likely to be nearer recovery by Saturday.

NOT TOO ALERT

Perhaps too mentally aware of their injury list, the Leafs were a disorganized and not too alert hockey team for the first 25 minutes. They were being beaten to the puck, passed badly too often when they got it and looked better when the teams were even than they did with the odd-man chance.

They took some bad penalties, three times before a Portland penalty had expired, and the Buckaroos cashed in twice on power plays and once on a careless clearing pass in the Victoria zone.

It was just enough to break a streak for Jean-Guy Morissette.

the pint-sized standby goal-keeper.

Morissette, who beat the Buckaroos in Portland Sunday and might have done it again last night with just a bit more in the way of support, had won 10 playoff games in a row — all he had played.

A borderline call by referee Lloyd Gilmore, who sometimes sees Bill Shvetz doing things he didn't do, gave Buckaroos a second power play chance in the first seven minutes.

PASSING BOUT

This time, a passing bout in front of Morissette left Cliff Schenau nothing to do but push the puck home.

Buckaroos got their second goal before the first period was over as Bob Ertel picked up an errant pass by Fred Hucul and fired a screened shot which the puck past a wide-open half of the goal on a quick chance. And in the last minute, Claude Labrosse, who with Sleaver was probably the pick of the Leafs, all but went through alone.

All it did was to prove that the Leafs at their best can play with the Buckaroos on even terms. Saturday night they had better do it for more than half the game.

caught Morissette by surprise. He blocked the puck but before he could get it under control, Larry Leach had come up to flip it over the line.

When Pat Stapleton teed up and sent a blistering shot behind Morissette in the sixth minute of the second period there seemed little hope of a comeback.

CAUTION GAME

The Leafs were still playing badly and the Buckaroos, understandably, brought out the cautious game that Hal Laycoe teaches so well. Getting three goals back against the Buckaroos is one of hockey's Mount Everest.

But the Leafs almost did it, proving again that the Buckaroos are quite a normal hockey club. They will bend and, sometimes buckle, under pressure.

They only best last night as Steve Witluk and Sandy Hucul managed to get third-period goals past Don Head—but it was precious close to snapping on occasion.

CLOSE CALLS

The third Victoria goal was all but in a number of times. Gordie Redahl deflected an iceed pass off the outside of the right post with an opening only an inch to the left. Keenan rolled

Women Bowlers Flock to Bonspiel

Distaff bowlers, sometimes loathe to compete against high-average male bowlers, have been quick to notice that bonspiel bowling appears to have accomplished its purpose of making matters as equitable as possible.

In the recently-completed second annual Vancouver Island Tenpin Bonspiel, 45 of the 96 teams included one or more female bowler for a total of 96 out of the 392 bowlers who took part.

And the ladies got their share of the prizes too, with three of the eight teams reaching the finals including two distaff bowlers in their lineup.

Linda McGuffie and Eva Nelson bowled for Gar's Trophies "B", runner-up in the Colonist event. Vi Barren and Judy Soyka bowled for Labatt's, runner-up in the Mayfair event, and Donna Pivon and Judy Soyka helped the Snake Dukes win the Gar's Trophies event.

And it's going to be even harder to stop the ladies in the second annual Vancouver Island Fivepin Bonspiel, which starts at Gibson's Recreations a week from tomorrow.

A check of the first 50 teams entered shows that 39 include at least one distaff bowler. There are three all-female quartets, three which have included a solitary male, 17 which are evenly split between the two sexes and 16 with three men and one woman.

It adds up to 71 women bowlers out of the first 200 entered.

And that adds up to more trouble for the males. Last year, eight particularly strong all-male teams entered the fivepin bonspiel. Seven failed to reach the semi-finals and the eighth lost in the semis as five teams which included two female bowlers were among the six finalists.

The finals in the Colonist and Gibson's events were between two mixed teams and a fifth mixed team was the defeated finalist in Gar's Trophies event. This year, the team scratch figure has been reduced from 50 to 900 and the handicap increased from 70 to 80 per cent of the difference between the combined team average and the scratch figure to further encourage the low-average bowler.

Deadline for entry is midnight this Saturday. Entry forms are available at Gibson's Recreations and entry fee is only $2.50 per bowler ($10 per team of four) for a chance at a prize fund which offers a guaranteed $1,000 in cash and $700 worth of merchandise prizes.

Nanaimo Backers Urging Harness Racing Proposal

NANAIMO — Harness racing enthusiasts are making a second effort to bring the sport to this area.

Three members of the Vancouver Island Turf Association—John Knight, J. B. Curran and Phil Piper—Tuesday urged the Nanaimo Civic Properties and Recreation Association to support harness racing.

Last January, the group was refused a charter by the provincial government, which indicated that too many people in the operation were held by too few people.

In a letter to the commission, the group said that more shares have been sold to the public, although the sale has since been terminated pending approval to run races.

The group now claims it has access to a charter and has horses available to start racing in 1966 at Beban Park.

The commission offered to set up a meeting between the racing group, the commission and Cedar Valley Riding Club, which holds the current lease on the park.

Four City Boys at Lions' Camp

VANCOUVER—The Grey Cup champion B.C. Lions opened their annual development camp Monday at Empire Stadium with four Victoria boys among the 60 minor football prospects.

Harvey Stevenson, John Porter, Lloyd Murphy and Dave Young of Victoria were invited to the camp by the Lions on recommendations from their respective coaches.

The purpose of the development camp is to assist each boy in developing his football potential.

Stevenson is a 220-pound guard-fullback. Porter is a 195-pound end, while both Murphy and Young are backfield prospects.

Murphy weighs 185 pounds and Young 190.

The 10-day training is under the direction of head coach Dave Skrien of the Lions, with assistance from aides Frank Johnston and Jim Champion. Lorne Davies of Simon Fraser University also is giving a helping hand.

The camp has "more boys who look and act, physically, like football players" than any of its predecessors, says coach Skrien.

Life Bans For Pair

LONDON (AP) — Two players were barred Wednesday for life from English League soccer competition. They had been convicted on bribery charges.

The players are Tony Kay of Everton, an English national halfback, and David Brown, a winger, Sheffield Wednesday centre forward.

They recently completed four-month prison terms on criminal charges arising from the case. They are among 10 players sent to jail in the biggest soccer scandal in England's history.

Simmer Down Banff

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Eric Jonas, secretary-general of the International Olympic Committee, said Wednesday planning for the 1968 Winter Olympics at Grenoble, France, is progressing satisfactorily and there is no present intention to find another site.

He was commenting on a statement by Health Minister Judy LaMarsh at Niagara Falls, Ont., that the games might be switched to Banff, Alta., because of IOC dissatisfaction with Grenoble's progress.

"The IOC received a detailed report from the Grenoble organizing committee last week and is completely satisfied," Jonas said.

Sheffield U. Encores

Sheffield United, a member of the glamorous First Division of the English Soccer League, returns to Canada next month for an exhibition game at Empire Stadium in Vancouver.

Sheffield will meet Blackpool, another First Division club, to open the exhibition season on Sunday, May 9.

Back in 1962, Sheffield United played at both Vancouver and Victoria, and left behind many lasting memories.

Sheffield expressed a desire to return to Canada for further games following their 1962 tour, and their dream will come true early next month.

A second exhibition is scheduled for Empire Stadium a month later when Nottingham Forest of England and Hibernian of Edinburgh meet. Exact date of this game will be announced at a later date by the B.C. Football Association Commission.

The Vancouver game between Sheffield United and Blackpool will be the only North American appearance of the two clubs as they make their way to New Zealand for a series of games. Victoria soccer fans can purchase tickets for the Sheffield United-Blackpool game early next week at the White Heather Gift Shop, 627 Yates St.

Sheffield United is one of the most famous teams in England, being founded back in 1883. It has won the English championship, been runner-up several times, captured the F.A. Cup four times, been losing finalist twice and a semi-finalist on 10 occasions.

The team is still composed of most of the players that visited here in 1962. Blackpool, founded in 1887, has never managed to win the English championship, though it has finished in the top six teams in England many times, finishing second, third and fourth several times.

The 1953 season was Blackpool's great year. That season with Stanley Matthews leading the way, the team won the F.A. Cup.

Real Madrid Wins Again

MADRID (AP) — Real Madrid won the Spanish premier league soccer championship by beating Sevilla 1-0 in the 30th and last round Sunday.

This is the fifth time in a row Real Madrid has won the championship and the 11th time the team has captured the seven-month-long contest since it was first played in 1929.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A strike of umpires and ticket takers was averted Wednesday shortly before the opening of Los Angeles Dodgers' second game with New York Mets.

East's Billions Look to West To End Hunger

By A. M. MURPHY

Two and a half billion underprivileged people are looking in at the glass wall the western world has built around itself and asking: Why don't you do something?

"And I think we could do something. We could ameliorate the fate of that part of the world," Baron Guy Daufresne de la Chevalerie, Belgian ambassador to Canada, told members of the Canadian Club Wednesday.

The people of China, the masses of India and the half-hungry all over the globe believe we can do anything—we have told them so ourselves. So they do not believe that we are unable to invent something better than a system of distribution which allows starvation in some countries and surpluses in others, the ambassador said.

"WILL NOT"

"They say: 'It's not because they cannot. It is because they will not,'" said Baron Daufresne.

The speaker, who participated as head of the Belgian delegation in the 1945 San Francisco conference which saw the birth of the United Nations, said that the UN had been a force for good in the world.

Like a parent watching his children the older nations which formed the nucleus of the UN, watched the new members, the emerging nations, fearful of what they might do.

LESS HARMFUL

It should be kept in mind, the speaker said, that mistakes made when a person or a nation was young were usually far less harmful in their results than those made when older.

"Some of these young members are drunk with independence and liberty, liberty which they have known for the first time. They have not yet realized that in order to make the organization work, everybody has to play the game," said the ambassador.

We do have the UN although it merely votes resolutions and passes no laws. We have the international court of justice but its decisions are not binding. We have no international police force.

ODD SITUATION

Therefore we have an international situation where a law which is never ratified is brought before a court without jurisdiction and enforced by a non-existent police force.

Having spent "practically all of my life" in the Far East, Baron Daufresne had little time for such terms as "population explosion."

"It took from the beginning of time until 1850 to put one billion people on earth. By 1950 there were two-and-a-half billion. In the next decade there will be four."

"We have realized that the population was increasing but we have refused to face it," the ambassador said.

Canadian Disc Jockey Scores Unexpected Hit

LONDON (UPI)—Canadian disc jockey Pete Brady Tuesday rescued an American fighter pilot from the frigid North Sea.

En route by tender to one of Britain's pirate radio ships, Brady saw a parachute plunge into the sea and abandoned a record session to save Lt. John C. Winn, Jr., 26, of Marshall, Tex.

St. Joseph's Reports:

Hospital Laundry Best on Continent

New equipment now being installed in the linen service building, under construction at St. Joseph's Hospital, will make the building the most modern of its kind in North America, say hospital officials.

The unit handles 1,500,000 pounds of linen yearly. The new building is now reaching completion.

It has the latest in design and equipment, recently arrived 32,000 pounds of machinery including a starch cooler, sheet spreader, eight-roll flatwork ironer, and automatic sheet folder.

The unit features a smooth workflow layout and detailed machinery selection.

Newly-installed in the wearing apparel section of the department are five press units, each consisting of three presses. Work will be handled in assembly-line fashion, with an automatic conveyor carrying the garments.

RECOVERS HEAT

Other new equipment includes a tumbler capable of drying 200 pounds of linen every 10 minutes, and a heat-recovery section designed to reclaim heat from waste water used in the washing cycle.

Laundry chutes and ventilating equipment are also being installed in preparation for opening of the building soon.

Floods Cover 50,000 Acres

HELSINKI (UPI)—The worst floods in more than 30 years have left 50,000 acres of farmland under water in Western Finland.

No casualties have been reported so far. Floods are expected to reach their peak level in two or three days.

Strachan Declares:

Welfare Boost Helps But It's Not Enough

By IAN STREET

Legislative Reporter

The new, higher scale of allowances will help B.C. welfare cases, but the increase still doesn't approach the real needs of these unfortunate people, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said Wednesday.

"My primary concern, however, still is that able-bodied men are required to accept social welfare," he said.

"This is a blot on our society. It is a measure of the failure of this government."

Ship Missing With Weapons

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI)—Kenya air force planes are patrolling the Indian Ocean looking for a Soviet arms ship due at Mombasa a week ago.

Defence Minister Dr. Njoroge Mungai has said the ship is carrying tanks and small arms destined for a detachment of the Kenya army at Mombasa.

Helicopters from the British commando carrier H.M.S. Albion reported they have not sighted the Soviet ship in flights over the Indian Ocean.

Mr. Strachan said a report prepared by the Community Chest in Vancouver back in September, 1958, set the minimum level of need for a single person on welfare at $75 a month and $134 for two people.

"Today, some seven years later, we are still not meeting that minimum need," he said.

The new scale of social allowances to take effect May 1 will give a single person $75 a month and two people $125. Increases announced by Welfare Minister Black Tuesday range from 14 to 20 per cent in eight categories.

None meet the recommendations of the 1958 Vancouver report, said Mr. Strachan.

NOT ADEQUATE

The opposition leader also scored the announcement, also by Mr. Black, that B.C.'s medicare scheme would go into effect Sept. 1.

"I'm not going to comment on the adequacy of the advisory board," said Mr. Strachan.

"The board cannot be adequate when the scheme itself is totally inadequate. I will not be content until we have a comprehensive medical care scheme for B.C."

Mr. Strachan added, however, that with Dr. Peter Banks, president of the B.C. division, Canadian Medical Association, and former president Dr. W. G. McClure appointed to the five-member advisory board, "it's obvious we're going to get exactly the kind of scheme the doctors want."

Firemen Slow, Negligent Darnell Inquest Told

CHICAGO (UPI)—A suburban fire department Wednesday was accused of "complete negligence" in battling the fire which killed actress Linda Darnell.

The charge against the Glenview fire department was made by Mrs. Muriel J. Harding, a neighbor who turned in the alarm when flames gushed from the living-room of the home where Miss Darnell was visiting.

Miss Darnell died April 10, 33 hours after firemen found her huddled behind aavenport in the charred living-room of her friend and former secretary, Mrs. Jeanne Curtis. Burns covered 80 per cent of the actress' body.

Mrs. Harding, testifying at an inquest, said firemen were late in answering the alarm, couldn't get their equipment on, and were forced to take Miss Darnell to the hospital in a police car because the door of an ambulance jammed.

"In my opinion there was complete negligence on the part of the Glenview fire department," Mrs. Harding said. "They were incompetent, confused, and just didn't know what to do."

"It would venture to say that she could have been saved with more efficiency," she added. Glenview fire chief Ray Burmeister denied the charges. "She lost track of time," he said of Mrs. Harding. "It was only two or three minutes until we hit the scene. She said 10 minutes, which shows how confused she is about all her other statements."

Mixed Reaction Greets Plays In Drama Festival

By BEST BONEY

With two plays from the Lake Cowichan Drama Club and one from St. Luke's Players of Victoria, the South Vancouver Island Drama Festival continued at the McPherson Playhouse Wednesday night.

Before adjudicator Tom Kerr and an audience roughly equal in size to that of opening night—about 150 capacity—the program started with Eida Cadogan's burly potential piece, The Invisible Worm, presented by the Lake Cowichan players.

This was described by Mr. Kerr as a "comedy conversa-

Without Violence

Suspense Builds Quietly

By IAN STREET

Seance on a Wet Afternoon, now playing at the Fox Cinema, demonstrates that violence isn't necessary in creating suspense. The suspense in this fine British film builds slowly until it's almost painful to watch. But I couldn't take my eyes off the screen.

Kim Stanley gives what surely must be her finest performances for the screen as the strong-willed woman seeking recognition at any price of her skill as a professional medium.

Richard Attenborough plays

the meek and mild husband she bullies into carrying out her carefully-conceived plan. The measure of his success is the warmth and humanity he lends to an otherwise unattractive character.

Mr. Attenborough is co-producer of the film with director-screenwriter Bryan Forbes, who keeps turning the screws on the audience.

It would be unfair to outline the story. But it concerns a plot to kidnap a young girl. If you enjoy suspense, don't miss.

Nothing But Best For Army Hopeful

NANAIMO—Mrs. Isabelle J. Adams, a mother of three and a welfare recipient, told Magistrate Eric Winch in magistrate's court Wednesday she had a good reason for taking sirloin rather than hamburger.

She was given a three-month suspended sentence for taking four sirloin steaks and four Easter eggs from a supermarket, and her reason was the steak would help build up her 21-year-old son so he can pass an army physical.

Hi-C Youngsters Told

'Don't Let World Mould You'

By IAN ARROL

The youth of today is conservative, cautious and unadventurous—old before its time—Rev. William Van Druten of Langford has told 140 high school students gathered in First United Church for a three-day Hi-C conference.

"You are the most unlikely to rebel, to concern yourself with causes," he said. "And you like yourself the way you are."

Rob Nelson, the church's Christian education director, said the three-day conference which ends today aims "to bring young people of the island together to share ideas and fellowship so they may discover what Christian faith means in the world we live in today."

Grow Up

Mr. Van Druten challenged the boys and girls from Campbell River, Parksville, Alberni, Port Alberni, Ucluelet, Quadra Island, Wellington, Nanaimo and Victoria to grow up intellectually — "for Christ's sake."

"Don't let the world squeeze you into its mold. Let God remodel your mind from within."

He saw in the use made today of mass media the danger that the soul of the nation might be destroyed.

Mord Junk

His main target was TV with its "endless procession of moral junk."

"Television could be used to inspire, to inform, to educate millions. Now it would seem nothing more than an advertising medium."

"Little kids can sing all the commercials before they learn anything else."

The shows themselves, the minister felt, made a mockery of the church.

Obituaries

Noted Musician Reg Wood Dies

Well-known Victoria musician Reginald Wood, 104, died suddenly Tuesday.

Born in Sunderland, England, he was 61 years old.

A music teacher and band master, he directed a 12 to 14-piece orchestra nightly at the Capitol Theatre during the silent film era.

BOY BAND

Band leader aboard CPR Alaska cruise ship, he was music director for Butchart Gardens' summer concerts and band master of the Victoria Boys' Band, which under his guidance won a major award at the 1964 Portland Rose Festival.

Mr. Wood's group played for many years at McMorran's in Cordova Bay, beginning in the early '30s as well as playing in the Empress Hotel. His group later became the George Kraeling orchestra.

UNION SECRETARY

A teacher with Hall and Fairfield, he did most of his own orchestrations. He served as secretary of the Victoria Musicians' Union Local 247.

He is survived by the widow Muriel and three daughters, Mrs. D. Zeinstra of Victoria and twins

Janie and Judie, and a son, Arthur, at home.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in Hayward's funeral chapel with Rev. J. L. W. McLean officiating.

Magee

John Magee, 78, died Wednesday at Veterans' Hospital.

Mr. Magee, 137 Simcoe, was a resident of the city for 36 years. He served in the First World War with 48th Battalion.

He leaves his wife Clara; two sons, Frederick John and William, both of Victoria; sister Mrs. Sarah Jones of Saanich; and a brother, William, in Vancouver.

Victoria Honored For Safety Record

Victoria has been rated fourth-best in Canada for an outstanding safety record in 1964.

The city will be honored by the Canadian Highway Safety Council for its position on a list of six cities, with populations exceeding 40,000, which showed the greatest reduction in fatal accidents per 10,000 population compared with 1963.

The picturesque farmland at the intersection of the Patricia Bay Highway and Royal Oak Avenue will remain just that — picturesque — Saanich council was told this week.

Coun. Leslie Pasmore said there could never be a subdivision of the 86-acre property because of covenants in the sale of the land in 1954 by Rithet Consolidated, Ltd. to former Saanich farmer J. D. Burdige.

The covenants forbid use of the land except for farming and agricultural purposes; poultry and wild animals are forbidden and three private dwellings and attendant buildings are all that are permitted.

The American book Mr. Beaver Helps Uncle Sam is not a textbook and is not included in the B.C. lists of library books recommended for schools, education minister Peterson said Wednesday.

Earlier this week parents of Grade 3 children in Kamloops complained that misleading "Americanisms" were being taught to the children.

"Sometimes the publicity given to the use of a book of doubtful value gives the impression that our schools are filled with American textbooks," Mr. Peterson said, "I can state categorically this is not the case."

The Greater Victoria school board Wednesday accepted a tender of $75,974 from William Campbell Ltd. for a three-room addition to Bracken elementary school.

Architect's estimate was $70,000. Other tenders were: Herb Bate Ltd., $79,150; E. J. Hunter and Son, $78,650; Patterson Construction, $77,475; and Wakeman and Trimble, $81,368.

When Detroit Mother Shot

FBI Agent with Killers

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — An FBI undercover agent was shot to death by three night riders when they shot to death Detroit civil rights worker Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, an official source disclosed Wednesday.

The source identified the undercover man as Gary Thomas Rowe, Jr., 31, one of four suspects originally arrested in the case.

He reportedly had been on the FBI payroll for about five years.

GUN FOUND
Asked why Rowe did not try to prevent the murder, the source said:

"He did all he could, but he couldn't do it without endangering his own life."

Another source said the FBI has the gun that killed Mrs. Liuzzo—a .38 calibre pistol.

It reportedly was among several guns confiscated and ballistics tests have established it as the murder weapon.

FIVE SHOTS

The source disclosed that five shots were fired, and one of the bullets was recovered from Mrs. Liuzzo's head.

Rowe testified for nearly two hours Tuesday before a county grand jury that concluded its investigation of the Liuzzo case Wednesday.

The grand jury, which has been asked to return murder indictments, spent 32 minutes voting and then recessed until today when it will report its findings to Judge T. Worth Thigard.

Mrs. Liuzzo, 38-year-old mother of five, was slain the night of March 25, just hours after the historic Selma-to-Montgomery civil rights march was completed.

Less than 24 hours later President Johnson went before a national television audience to announce that four Ku Klux Klansmen had been arrested in the case.

In addition to Rowe, the President named Collier Leroy Wilkins, 21, and Eugene Thomas, 42, both of Fairfield, and William Eaton, 41, of Bessemer.

Rowe slipped into the jury room virtually unnoticed Tuesday. Following his testimony, he was dashed to a car driven by an FBI agent. Two other agents ran interference and prevented newsmen from questioning him.

Reds Drop Chaff In Air Corridors

BERLIN (UPI)—Soviet planes endangered allied commercial and military aircraft in the Berlin corridors Monday by scattering radar-jamming strips of metal known as chaff, it was disclosed Wednesday.

A Western spokesman said the United States, Britain and France promptly protested against the new Soviet harassment in the vital air lanes.

The chaff, dropped south of Berlin, floated across the three 20-mile-wide air corridors above East Germany that link the city with West Germany.

The allies tried to keep the new Soviet harassment secret and confirmed the story only after it had leaked out.

However, officials said the Russians were not "saturating" the corridors with chaff and radar operators were able to distinguish between the planes and the metal strips.

The Russians made no reply to the Western protest, as usual. The U.S. Army sent a convoy of nine vehicles from West Germany to West Berlin without difficulty, an army spokesman said.

A-Arms Pact Urged

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Secretary-General U Thant appealed to the United Nations disarmament commission Wednesday to give urgent consideration to a speedy agreement on preventing the spread of nuclear weapons.

Thant made the appeal at the opening session of the commission in which all 114 UN member nations are represented.

The session got off on a harmonious note with the unanimous election of Ambassador Mohamed Awad el Kony of the United Arab Republic as chairman.

Whiff of 'Pineapples'

By TONY DILLON-DAVE

Greenish-yellow chlorine gas smelled like pineapples to Canadian troops in the front lines at the Battle of Ypres, 51 years ago.

"My eyes watered like I was peeling onions," said Walter Fish, at the Vancouver Island Red Chevron Association banquet at the Empress Hotel Wednesday commemorating the battle.

More than 100 veterans attended the dinner. Mr. Fish was serving with the 16th

Canadian Scottish Regiment, which was sent to fill in a front line gap left by retreating French colonial troops.

"Though the gas had dispersed, many still fell from the fumes," he said.

"It smelled like pineapples," said Ernie Smith, who served with the First Motor Machine Gun Brigade.

"The officers told us to put rags or anything wet over our faces. This counteracted the gas."

Napier Hardyman was a teenager serving with the Second Battalion, billeted behind the front lines.

At the front, French colonial troops were facing a steadily advancing cloud of the greenish-yellow chlorine gas.

They broke, blinded and choking, before the gas and German troops took over their trenches.

Mr. Hardyman said, "We drove the Germans out of the French trenches, then back beyond their own trenches."

"I was wounded seven times."

"This was Ypres, the first major engagement of Canadian troops in the First World War."

Indian Agency Admits Reserve Lease Holdup

Long Runs

Cabbies Want Increase

By A. M. MURPHY

A change in rates which will give taxi operators greater returns on long trips is being asked by a majority of cab drivers in the city.

In a letter to city council 34 signers ask that rates be changed to:

Fifty-five cents for the first one-quarter mile or fraction, from 65 cents for the first one-third mile or fraction.

Ten cents for each additional one-quarter mile instead of 10 cents for each additional one-third mile, or fraction.

Ten cents for each two minutes stopping or waiting, after the first two minutes, instead of 15 cents for each three minutes stopping.

With regard to hourly rates, for use in shopping tours, weddings and funerals, taximen ask $1 for the first hour or fraction or 40 cents per travelled mile, whichever is the greater. One dollar is asked for each succeeding 15 minutes or 40 cents per travelled mile.

Indian agency officials have confirmed the agency is holding up leases on Songhees reserve on Craigflower Road.

An official said there have been complaints from white residents near the reserve, which led to holding up approval on the lease plan.

Chief John Albany said earlier his band council had decided to allow leasing of property to Greater Victoria businessmen to increase revenue and improve the reserve.

He said residents had no right to complain about development of Indian lands, and said he had rented two acres of his own property to an auto parts firm.

An agency official said Wednesday this application is the only one which has come to the agency's attention.

"As you will realize, this is not the most desirable type of lease from the point of view of residents," the agency official said.

ON TO OTTAWA

When a business wishes to lease land, it makes application to the agency. The band then asked its opinion. If the application is approved, it is sent to Ottawa.

When objections were made by white residents of the area, the agency decided to halt temporarily proceedings and take the matter up with the regional office in Vancouver.

Chief Albany said earlier he believes the objections are based on the wish of some officials to amalgamate the reserve into a municipality including Esquimalt and View Royal.

"We just want to be left alone," he said.

NANAIMO—Fuse caps and six cases of dynamite were stolen from the Nanaimo Lakes camp of Crown Zellerbach last week, police said Wednesday.

The explosives were housed in a locked shed at the logging camp.

Students Bolster 3-U Fund

University of Victoria's class of '65 has contributed more than $5,000 to the tri-universities capital fund.

Class president Larry Devlin said five per cent of the pledges were still out and he hoped to collect another $200 from this group.

Mr. Devlin said that while the class pledged money to the fund, it "appeared any increase of tuition fees."

"Any future support is contingent on a sensible policy of tuition fees," he added.

The 300-member graduating class is part of the annual division headed by David Ferne.

'Discrimination' on Job Board?

80-Year-Olds Lose Jobs

The Unemployment Insurance Commission is breaking the law which prevents employers from discriminating against employees because of their age, according to several delegates to the Victoria Labor Council.

Council members were heated in their denunciation of referees to the commission in Victoria.

The two, Robert Noble and Perry Rayment, had heard nothing about the move until a letter was read out in the council Wednesday.

"We've been thrown on the scrap heap," commented Mr. Noble, long-time member of the board.

E. T. Staley, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, told the meeting the way in which the matter was handled was an affront to the council.

Harry Anderson, who was elected first vice-president at the meeting, said the UIC was breaking the law which prevents discrimination because of age.

The council indicated it had complete faith in the two men, both more than 80 years old.

Mr. Noble said after the meeting the move may have come not because of age, as suggested by the UIC, but because of the number of minority reports he has presented while a board member.

The council will protest the action, and the way in which it was handled.

One suggestion, which will be discussed by the executive, would see the council submit the names of Mr. Noble and Mr. Rayment as new nominees for the board.

B.C. Responsibility—Staley

'Tin-Cup Universities' Lose Labor Support

By PATRICK O'NEILL

B.C. Federation of Labor is finished with the tri-universities capital fund and all other university fund drives.

"We will not take any further part in this drive. We have to start sticking up for our policies," E. T. Staley, president of the federation, told Victoria Labor Council Wednesday.

THREE REASONS

He said there are three reasons for withdrawal of support by the federation:

● A prospect of a fee-raise for university students.

● Firm policy of the federation that universities should be built from tax money.

● Opposition of one university's administration to certification of a union on campus.

While he did not mention this university by name, discussion on the point at the labor council meeting referred to a recent certification dispute at University of Victoria.

Mr. Staley said when the tri-university capital fund first approached the federation, labor officials pointed to labor policy that the government should build and operate universities.

LAST TIME

When the federation was requested to place an official on the fund's board, first vice-president Jack Moore was named.

"But we pointed out this would be the very last time we would engage in such activity," said Mr. Staley.

"Unless we were instructed otherwise in convention."

He said the federation then learned there might be a fee increase for university students.

Mr. Moore went to the fund's directors and asked for assurance that there would be no increase.

"He could not get a straight-forward answer on the question of an increase. He tried to point out when they were raising money to build universities, it would be a poor time and a poor policy to have a fee increase," said Mr. Staley.

LONG BRIEF

He said a university then presented a lengthy brief to the labor relations board against certification of a union on campus.

"There were four letters attached to this brief, and they were all alike. The university had canvassed employees to get opposition to certification."

PULLING OUT

At this point, Mr. Moore resigned. Wednesday, the federation announced it is pulling out.

"We can no longer support the drive," said Mr. Staley.

He said government policy is promoting "tin-cup" universities, which must go begging for money.

Mr. Staley, referring to the certification dispute, said "the universities come to us for help to raise money from union people, then they take this attitude toward labor."

MISTAKE

Following Mr. Staley's speech, council secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone said it was a mistake to withdraw support. He said University of Victoria president Dr. Malcolm Taylor said he was out of town when the certification question was resolved.

Mr. Toone said he learned from the president a fee raise is in the hands of the government, not of universities.

Discussion disclosed local carpenters' union has declined to give official support to the fund, and Local 50, Civic Employees, have decided not to give official support.

Peterson Replies:

Hamilton All Wet On School Control

By IAN STREET

Legislative Reporter

Former federal agriculture minister Alvin Hamilton is "talking through his hat" when he claims that B.C. controls the universities in this province, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said Wednesday.

Mr. Hamilton said here recently that Canadian universities are too tightly controlled by provincial governments. The Conservatives are working on a party policy to "liberate" the universities from this pressure, he said.

Mr. Peterson said the former Tory cabinet minister was obviously unfamiliar with the education system in B.C.

"Otherwise he would not think for one minute that our universities are under the control of the government or the department of education," said Mr. Peterson.

The minister took a skeptical view of Mr. Hamilton's promise that a Conservative government in Ottawa would supply federal aid to universities but will not control curriculum.

INCREASE WELCOMED

"That is not to say that we would not welcome an increase in the present completely inadequate federal support to education," said Mr. Peterson.

Opposition leader Robert Stanbury said Wednesday that there could be no academic freedom in the universities if the provincial government controlled them.

Topic for Forum

Research Major Need In War with Cancer

Associate director of B.C. Cancer Institute in Vancouver Dr. J. M. W. Gibson, will be a member of a panel of doctors discussing cancer at a public forum Monday in Greater Victoria.

Dr. Gibson, a radiotherapist, will deal with advances of cancer research.

In a recent speech to Victoria's Conquer Cancer Campaign committee, Dr. Gibson pointed to the need for both independent research and organized work.

Dr. Gibson said often independent research can "ring a bell," such as the discovery of insulin for diabetes.

Dr. Gibson said 50 per cent of persons with cancer are now cured. If the cure can be raised to 80 per cent, "it will make all research worthwhile," said Dr. Gibson.

Gibson

Other doctors on the panel are moderator Dr. A. B. Nash, member of the consulting staff, Royal Jubilee Hospital; Dr. J. D. Hough, chief of staff, St. Joseph's Hospital; Dr. M. J. Lynch, chief pathologist, St. Joseph's; Dr. R. M. Lane, internist, director of Vancouver Island chest clinics.

The free public forum will be held Monday in the 1,500 seat Central Junior High School auditorium.

Doors will be open at 7:30 p.m. The forum will begin at 8 p.m. with the Hollywood-produced film The Million Club.

Unique Ceremony in Cathedral

Christ's Casket at the Altar

By IAN ARROL

Good Friday for the 200 followers of the Greek Orthodox religion who observe the Julian calendar is this Friday—and Christ Church Cathedral has been made available for an 8 p.m. service, at which the Dean and clergy will attend.

The general public is also invited by local spokesmen to witness the unique ceremony, which has never been presented in the city before.

There is no Greek Orthodox church in the city. Members attend the regular services of Christ Church Cathedral and other Anglican Churches through the year.

Baptismal, wedding and funeral services are conducted at the cathedral by priests from Vancouver or the United States.

The Good Friday service, called the Greek Epitaphios, will be conducted by Father John Floropoulos of Vancouver.

A statue of Christ in a casket frame on the altar steps will be the focus of the ceremony. Flowers of mauve and white stock together with greenery will surround the frame; a cross fashioned with white lilies will top the casket. Surrounding the base will be lighted candles.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Daykin and daughter, Carol Lorraine came from Vancouver last weekend for Carol's christening in St. John's Anglican Church. Rev. Colin Campbell officiated and godparents were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daykin and Miss Margaret Brand of Alberni. While here the Daykins stayed with Mrs. Daykin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Brand, 2054 Marston Street and following the christening a tea was held at the Brand home. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Daykin, Carol's paternal grandparents, were present.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My boy friend is a high school senior. Butch is not the greatest student in the world but he's a terrific athlete and has a wonderful personality. My girl friends make fun of Butch because they say he talks like he was born in a foreign country.

He was born right here in Buffalo. His parents were born in Europe and they speak their native language at home. Butch pronounces certain words wrong but then nobody is perfect. He says "Babe Root" instead of "Babe Ruth", "dem" for "them" and "vacation" instead of "vacation". When he said "Walley Forge" in class everyone broke up.

Should I correct Butch when he makes mistakes or would it be best to say nothing and hope that he catches on by himself?

— BUTCH'S GIRL

Dear Girl: A high school boy who says "Babe Root" and "Walley Forge" is not going to catch on by himself.

Speak to Butch privately about the words he mispronounces. He picked up these speech habits from his parents and it's going to take a lot of work to unlearn them.

Dear Ann Landers: Our oldest son married too young although we begged him to wait. We have lent them money until we are almost broke ourselves. They have been married six years and have five children. In the past four years they've moved eight times. If it isn't trouble with the neighbors it's trouble with the landlord.

We own a large duplex. The family upstairs is moving to the coast. When our son and his wife heard this they announced that they were moving in.

I told them "Sorry, no." My husband is not well and he can't stand noise. Furthermore, my daughter-in-law is such a sloppy housekeeper it is better if I'm on the other side of town and don't see what goes on.

My son telephoned yesterday and cried. The landlady has given them notice and they have no place to go. Am I a terrible mother as my son says? I'm heartick and miserable. — PEARL

Dear Pearl: If you think you are heartick and miserable now just let that pack move in upstairs and you'll find out what heartickness and misery are.

You are going to wind up on the outs with this son and his wife, sooner or later, no matter what you do.

If this crybaby is man enough to father five children in six years he should not be slobbering on the phone and calling you names because you refuse to continue bailing him out of his financial problems.

Dear Ann Landers: I enjoy sending cards to my friends on their birthdays. It makes no difference whether they send me a card in return.

This morning I ran into a woman to whom I had recently sent a card. She was not alone but she stopped me and made a big thing out of thanking me. She said, "You're awfully nice to remember me year after year even though I never remember you on your birthday."

I tried to pass it over saying her birthday was easy to remember because it fell on the same day as my sister's. Then came this biting insult, "Even if your birthday was the same day as mine I wouldn't remember to send a card!"

Why would a person make such a thoughtless and tasteless remark? — KANSAS CITY

Dear K.C.: People make thoughtless and tasteless remarks because they are thoughtless and tasteless.

Miss Diane Maedel Bride Of John Robertson Ruttan

Of interest in Victoria was the recent marriage of Diane Maedel, Mabel Maedel and Mr. John Robertson Ruttan at St. Andrew's United Church, Alberni.

Rev. Roy Rodgers officiated at the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Maedel, Alberni, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ruttan, 1250 Beach Drive.

Mrs. Marilyn Coney sang The Lord's Prayer and O' Perfect Love during the candlelight service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white, heavy peau de sole gown with French lace roses applied on front of floor-length skirt which fell into a cathedral train.

Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom, and her finger-tip, four-tiered illusion net veil was held in place by a French organza gardenia. She carried lily of the valley and white roses.

Mrs. Diane Ennik of Vancouver, matron of honor, Mrs. Arlene Box of Comox, brides-matron and Miss Carol Ruttan, sister of the groom, were gowned alike in blue crystal peau dresses styled with full, belled skirts, three-quarter length sleeves and batteau necklines. The bride's nieces, the Misses Beverley Rogers and Leslie Maedel wore floor-length frocks styled after the senior attendants. They all wore floral headpieces on tone and carried colonial bouquets of white feathered carnations.

Mr. Charles Ruttan of Vancouver was best man for his brother, Mr. Tom Philips, Nanaimo, and Mr. Robert Cross, Victoria, were ushers.

A four-tiered cake, decorated with pale yellow roses, centred the bride's table at the reception which followed in the Crystal Ballroom of Barclay Hotel. Mr. John Peterson proposed the toast to the bride. For travelling on a honeymoon to San Francisco the bride chose a light, mint green sheath dress of Italian-knit. She wore a matching coat, green floral hat and black accessories. A corsage of white butterfly roses completed her ensemble.

On their return the newlyweds will make their home in Nanaimo.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Ruttan

Recently returned to Victoria are Group Capt. and Mrs. Alex M. Jardine and their two daughters, Louisa, aged seven years, and Marjory, five.

The Jardines have come from Penhold, Alta., where Capt. Jardine was Commanding Officer of the RCAF station. —(William Boucher)

Right Neighborhood Important When Buying Your New Home

By JEAN SHARP
TORONTO (CP)—A rule of thumb when deciding how much house you can afford is that it should not cost more than 2½ times your annual income.

The total carrying charges, including taxes, should not take more than 27 per cent of your gross monthly income, roughly a week's pay. It takes $8.55 each month to pay $1,000 of loan at 6½ per cent interest over 25 years.

Once you decide what you can afford, look at possible neighborhoods in terms of protecting your investment, says D. B. Kirkup of the Toronto Real Estate Board.

He says homes in older, stable neighborhoods are difficult to get all across Canada, but are desirable because you can see what you are getting in them. "You can tell from appearance if homes are well maintained or if the neighborhood is on the decline."

"In any neighborhood, a quiet street, free from traffic hazards is best. The lots on crescents and courts are usually sold first, and often have a premium price put on them by a builder."

"If you are buying in a new neighborhood, be sure local improvements are in and paid for. Check with the city engineer. You should know that such things as sewers are in, connected and paid for."

"Be careful of buying next to a vacant lot if you don't know what is going to be built on the lot. You can check with the municipality about zoning. But remember that zoning can be changed."

"Ask about the local tax structure. Taxes will be high if there are no industrial and commercial businesses sharing the load."

"While you are still outside the house, think about what material has been used in the construction. Brick is the best material from the point of view of investment value, and burned clay brick costs twice as much as sand lime brick. Ask which type it is."

Mr. Kirkup says the most important place to watch for indoor cracks is in the basement, where they might indicate serious weakness. "It might be only a simple matter, but you would have to consult an expert to be sure. You should also be sure the basement is dry."

"Upstairs, check flooring. Hardwood is best. Wall cracks probably needn't worry you too much. Most houses have them, especially new ones."

"Consider the traffic pattern in the house. For instance, would kids have to go through the living room to get to a bathroom or the kitchen?"

"If you think you might want to build an addition, find out if local by-laws would allow it. People rarely build on. They move. The average family now moves once every four years. Ten years ago it was once every five. And about two-thirds of all Canadian families own homes."

Our Man In The Kitchen

HYMAN GOLDBERGER

Woman in her seventies kept going to her doctor, complaining on each visit of new pains, aches, new symptoms. Finally the doctor spoke frankly to her. "You know," he said, all these aches and pains that you complain about are not at all unusual, for a person of your age. Medical science can go only so far, because we can't make you any younger, you know."

The woman sneered, "Who wants to be younger? What I want is you should make me older." Young or old will like: BAKED CHICKEN LIVER STUFFED LAMB CHOPS

Four double lamb (or pork) chops; four chicken livers; one medium onion, minced; ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper; one can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup; ½ can water.

Cut the bones off the chops and throw the bones away. Trim off all the fat you can and, over low heat, slowly melt the fat in a large skillet. While this is going on, cut each chop, horizontally, to make a deep pocket, but don't cut through, cut all the way through. Stuff the chicken livers gently on each side, about one minute on each side, remove them from the skillet and brown the onion, stirring, but don't let the onion get burned; it should be brown and soft.

Mince the sautéed chicken livers, combine them with the browned onion. Now stuff each chop with equal amounts of the chicken liver-onion mixture and fasten the openings with toothpicks, breaking points off toothpicks so the chops will lie flat.

At this point you will probably need additional fat for the skillet. Brown the stuffed chops over high heat on both sides, sprinkling with salt and pepper, but don't burn them. Put the chops into a baking dish or casserole and start preheating your oven to 350 degrees.

In the same skillet in which you browned everything, combine the soup and water, and bring to the boil. Pour the soup over the chops in the baking dish and bake, covered, for 30 minutes.

Toronto Teaching Offer Accepted in Walkout

SASKATOON, Sask. (UPI) — The parents of 45 boycotting French-speaking students in Saskatoon have decided to accept an offer from University of Toronto students to provide the children with home tuition. Their decision came at a four-hour meeting Tuesday night.

The students' union of the University of Toronto had offered to send bilingual instructors to teach the children at home while they are away from school. They would teach the regular curriculum, as well as French and Canadian history, at no expense to the parents.

Meanwhile, the parents said the boycott for French instruction would continue after the Easter holidays.

The separate school board declined all comment, and Saskatchewan education minister George Trapp said he would meet again today with the organizers of the walkout.

WILL CONTINUE

One of the protest organizers, Ernest Bourgeault, said Wednesday, "We have nothing sure and tangible that we have obtained what we wanted for the children. So in the meantime, the walkout will continue."

"The parents have given us a one-year mandate to the job... to see the project through during and after the walkout."

In Regina, Mr. Trapp expressed concern at the decision to continue the walkout, but said he would not give the Saskatoon group any commitments.

NO COMMITMENT

"This is a serious problem with wide implications which needs serious study. They will not get any commitment from me other than to look into the matter."

Separate School board chairman William Reid said he had nothing to say on the matter, since "we are not involved in it."

Defence Counsel Raps Bid to Amend Charge

A prosecution bid Wednesday in city court to amend a charge against two men was strongly opposed by the men's counsel on the grounds it would prejudice their defence.

Because prosecution had found its evidence did not suit one of the two counts in the charge, defence counsel Robert Price argued, it wanted to change the count to suit the evidence.

Mr. Price lodged his objection at the end of the prosecution case against Mihaly Molnar and Janos Puskas, jointly charged with breaking and entering and possession over $50.

CHANGE WORDING

Molnar and Puskas, both of 1020 Catherine, pleaded not guilty.

When all the prosecution evidence had been entered, Crown prosecutor Peter Birkett applied to Magistrate William Ostler to amend the wording on the break-in count.

The original wording said the break-in occurred on the premises of G.H. Wheaton Ltd., 880 Broughton.

DIFFERENT NAME

Mr. Birkett said he wanted the reference to the Wheaton company deleted and the name "YMCA" substituted.

Mr. Price argued that for the magistrate to allow the amendment so late in the case would cause a "substantial wrong" to the defendants.

The case was adjourned until Friday with the argument unresolved. Magistrate Ostler saying he wanted to think about it overnight.

'MORE CARE'

He said it was a mystery to him how the reference to the Wheaton company came to appear on the charge in the first place.

"We could avoid these things if Crown would use a little more care in drawing up charges," the magistrate said.

Difficult situations had arisen in his court because of poor draughtsmanship in charges, he added.

DRUMS OF CEMENT

Earlier, police testified that Molnar and Puskas had been stopped early April 1 on McClure in a car that had four five-gallon drums of adhesive cement in the trunk.

The cement, prosecution charged, had been stolen from the YMCA building under construction on Broughton.

Det. Richard Berry of city police testified Puskas told him he had bought the cement three weeks earlier for $20 from an unknown man who clinched the deal in the beer parlor of a downtown hotel.

Det. Berry said both men had mud and white plaster on their shoes similar to mud outside and plaster inside the YMCA premises.

Each told him separately they had picked up the mud several hours earlier in Sidney, where they were looking for a friend.

Det. Berry agreed under cross-examination by Mr. Price he had seen no trace of muddy footprints, or any mud at all, inside the premises when he went to examine them shortly after he interviewed Molnar and Puskas.

In Saanich court, Curtis Purdy, 29 Sims, was convicted of impaired driving.

Purdy had pleaded not guilty to the charge, laid after he drove into a fence on Regina last Sept. 19.

For reasons that included the illness of a prospective witness and the awaiting of a higher court decision on the admissibility of police evidence, the case had been adjourned a number of times.

It was adjourned again Wednesday until April 26 for presentence report.

Pinball Games Given the Axe

MONTREAL (UPI)—Nineteen pinball games and one slot machine got the axe literally Tuesday when police demolished the lot.

It was the first time in nearly ten years that gambling machines were destroyed by police.

Social Security police seized the pinball machines two years ago and kept them pending a court ruling.

Spies Caught

SEOUL (AP)—The South Korean central intelligence agency said Wednesday a six-man Communist spy ring operating under North Korean direction has been broken and all its members arrested.

Tied Up, Beaten

Famous Clown Slain

NEW YORK (UPI)—Paul Jung, 65, a leading clown with Ringling Bros. circus for 31 years, was found beaten to death Wednesday in his hotel room near Madison Square Garden, police reported.

Jung's body, clad in pajamas and undershirt, was found in his blood-spattered room at the Hotel Forrest after Ringling officials called the hotel to find out why he had not shown up for work.

Police said Jung, a resident of Tampa, Fla., was badly beaten about the head and had severe bruises on his body.

He was found lying face up on the floor of the room with his hands behind his back.

Jung told his usual clown act for the circus matinee at the Garden Tuesday, but there was no performance Tuesday night. Police said he had failed to keep a dinner appointment.

Jung joined the circus in 1934 and was an important producing clown for the company. A producing clown is one who invents his own acts, props, and gags. Jung was best-known for his firehouse, soldiers and baseball gags.

The clown is survived by his wife, Elsie, who has been an all-round performer with the circus? She was at home in Tampa. They had no children. Jung, a native of Dayton, Ohio, was the proprietor of a "fun factory" in Tampa where he manufactured props for circuses and sideshows. He came to New York late last month for the opening of Ringling Bros. at the Garden April 1.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRES

Of all the flowers we grow in the Chesnut garden, I think the one that gives the most pleasure and satisfaction to my family is the gladiolus. During the flowering season, our house is full of the lovely things—big vases of the tall varieties on the floor flanking the living room fireplace, smaller containers as a centerpiece on the dining room table filled with the miniature and butterfly kinds, and my wife's "floral art" creations built with bits and pieces of the gladiolus spikes.

Certainly, few of our garden flowers last so well in water. By cutting a bit off the lower stem every day or so, and by picking off the lower florets as they fade, we've had gladiolus spikes last as long as 10 days, just as fresh and lovely as the day they were picked.

With all its virtues, though, I can't see the gladiolus as a flower for garden decoration. As a cut flower, it is unsurpassed, but for prettying-up the flower beds out front, it has a lot of faults.

For one thing, gladiolus don't mix very well with the other occupants of the mixed flower borders. For another, the individual spikes don't remain in bloom long enough to be worthwhile. And when you plant the bulbs, you can't tell which way the flowers are going to face—and an ornamental bed can look rather queer with the flowers all facing the rear!

The gladiolus is an untidy wench, too, as she nears the end of her flowering period. The faded brown lower florets look like death warmed over, and if you keep 'em picked off in the interest of tidiness, you get a long stretch of bare stem with a scabby topknot of fading bloom. You can't just cut the plants down after the blooms finish, either, for like all bulb flowers, the critical time in their life cycle is the period immediately following the flowers. This is when the leaves are working overtime to plump up the bulbs for next year's flowers, and if you cut away the same routine hoeing, feeding, water-

For all these reasons, I prefer to look upon my gladiolus as a crop—something to be grown and cut for use in the house, just like our carrots and lettuce. And I grow them in the same way—in rows, in the vegetable plot out back, where they receive the same routine hoeing, feeding, watering and spraying as the string beans and tomatoes. And after the "crop" of cut flowers is harvested, the plants can get along with the untidy business of plumping up and ripening the bulbs without making the front of the house a messy eyesore.

As with the vegetables, too, you have to do a little planning to avoid a glut. Just as too much lettuce all heading up at the same time can be wasteful, so will too many spikes of gladiolus coming into bloom at the one time fill all your vases and bowls to overflowing.

To avoid such gluts, one way is to stagger the planting of your bulbs. Instead of bunging them all in at once, tuck a dozen or so into the ground every weekend through the spring and early summer.

Another way is to select your varieties according to their time of blooming, for there are early, mid-season and late varieties in gladiolus just as there are in potatoes and peas. In most bulb catalogues, the name of the variety is followed by the letter E, M or L as a guide to its season of bloom. By choosing your bulbs from all three classifications, you can provide a more continuous supply of cut flowers for the home, and over a longer period of time.

Anatomy of a Revolt, by ART BUCHWALD

Nothing to Do But Riot

WASHINGTON—There has been a great deal of discussion about campus revolts around the country. It is obvious the students are restless and it's making educators very nervous.

The question is why, and I think I've got the answer. The reason the college students are doing so much demonstrating is that there is no one in class to teach them anymore and the students have nothing else to do.

Almost every full professor is either writing a book, guest lecturing at another university, or taking a year off to write a report.

Therefore, he has turned over his course to a graduate instructor who is either working on his Ph.D., travelling on a scholarship, or picking in Montgomery, Alabama.

So he in turn has turned the class over to one of the bright students who is never there because he works on the college newspaper.

When the students arrive at class there is no one in front of the room, so usually one of them takes over the class and tells the others it's about time they revolted against the system.

The students pour out on campus heading for the administration building to protest to the chancellor of the university who, unfortunately, is away trying to raise money for a new business administration building.

The vice-chancellor is away testifying on a new education bill and the dean is at a convention. The only one left in the administration building is the chief of campus police who isn't quite sure what the students are yelling about. So he arrests the ringleaders of the group (those standing in front) and this plays right into the students' hands because now with the arrests they have something to demonstrate about.

In the meantime the chancellor files home to see if he can settle the matter. The students present him with a petition demanding the release of the arrested demonstrators. He is about to do this when the board of regents holds an emergency meeting and votes to back the chancellor in meeting out punishment to the "ring-leaders."

The faculty, made up of visiting professors from other schools, votes to support the students and the chancellor finds himself in an impossible position.

He therefore resigns and accepts a grant from the Ford Foundation to make a study of higher education.

The politicians call for an investigation of the student demonstrations to discover if they were Communist-inspired.

Finally, the Governor makes a statement pledging full support for law and order, whatever that means.

By this time the demonstrations start petering out. The students begin wandering back to class hoping there will be someone to teach them something. But even the student who started the demonstrations is not there. He's been booked on a lecture tour to talk about free speech at other universities.

So everyone decides to go to Washington and picket the White House over its policy on Viet Nam.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Bad Boy in Demand

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Despite the fact that Paramount is suing George Peppard for $1,000,000 for walking out on Sands of Kalahari, five other studios and producers have offered him pictures. George is so in demand his price has gone up to $500,000 plus a percentage of any picture he makes. I remember years ago, when Louis L'Amour caused trouble at Metro and the late Louis L. Mayer dropped her, not another studio in town would hire her, even though she'd won two academy awards. And when Paramount dropped Betty Hutton because she was demanding $6,000 a week, Betty didn't work in a picture for three years. It's all different now.

George and Elizabeth Ashley are now free to marry if they want to. Liz's husband, James Farentine, got a quickie Mexican divorce two weeks ago. But I don't look for any sudden merger between these two. Liz's career is going almost as well as George's, and they're happy with the relationship they have. So they'll wait.

Lauren Bacall and James Edwards, Jr. will soon be my neighbors. They've rented the home where Katherine Hepburn nursed Spencer Tracy back to health last year during his serious illness, and intend to stay at least five months.

Richard Harris, the volatile English actor, blithely turned down $300,000 to star with Julie Andrews and Max von Sydow in Hawaii. The picture has started shooting on location in Starbridge, Massachusetts. Julie spent the weekend in New York with husband Tony Walton, thus putting to rest the persistent rumor there is trouble with their marriage. Tony leaves for England soon to design the sets for a musical comedy, so he and Julie will be separated again for quite a while. Watch the rumor-mongers latch on to that.

Carol Burnett and husband, Joe Hamilton, will be moving to Hollywood soon to live. Carol wants to have her second baby, due in November, out here.

Lorne Greene's night club debut at the Nugget in Sparks, Nev., on April 29 is costing him almost $100,000.

That's the amount he's been offered for rodeo appearances during his time off from Bonanza but he decided he'd rather do something new.

Lee Remick will kick up her heels on one of Dean Martin's TV shows next season. Bill Colleran, Lee's husband, will produce the series, so it wasn't difficult for him to talk her in to doing it.

Edie Adams' role in Metro's Made In Paris is being rewritten to give her a much stronger part, which she made as a condition before signing for it. This picture is having casting trouble. Richard Chamberlain was announced for it, then Richard Crenna replaced him. Louis Jourdan was virtually signed, but when he found out he wouldn't get the girl, Ann-Margret, he bowed out.

Doing television commercials is a very pleasant way of augmenting one's income, as June Lockhart has discovered. June will be paid almost $70,000 for those commercials she does for that toothpaste company.

After doing a musical, The Unsinkable Molly Brown, and a western, The Glory Guys, Harve Presnell will star in a mystery melodrama, Meet Me At Midnight, written by Harry Kleiner and to be directed by Michael Gordon. Harve's chicken ranch in Northern California produces 1,000,000 eggs a week, and that's a lot of omelette.

Producer Joe Levine's enchantment with his "Harlow," Carroll Baker, seems to be over and I wouldn't be surprised if this is the last picture he puts her in. Carroll's temperament is showing, and Joe doesn't like it. On the subject of temperament, Natalie Wood is also showing hers on the set of Inside Daisy Clover. Natalie is now insisting on okaying every word written about her, censoring each interview and just being difficult in general.

Elizabeth Taylor won't have to diet for her role in Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? The heroine of that story is supposed to be a bit plump, and that will suit Elizabeth just fine.

Consult Your Conscience

Urges Dr. STUART ROSENBERG

Hardly a man breathes who does not possess a conscience. In the stillness of its small voice he can hear persistent urgings: be more than you are!

But conscience, it has been aptly said, makes cowards of us all. For too easily the louder voices of the "status-seekers" drown out the softer syllables of the self—urging us to have more if we are to be more.

And soon, we shall be following a voice not our own, seeking to be more than we are in ways which often turn out to be self-defeating.

The race to outdo ourselves, as the status-seekers would have it, invariably means that we have to outdo our neighbors: we must live in special neighborhoods, furnish our homes in certain styles, join the proper clubs and even affiliate with the right churches. Top status can only be achieved, in that world, by what you have.

The voice of conscience, however, when it can be heard above the din, recommends a different direction. It says that prestige is required not by what a man has, but by what a man is. Men, it recommends, should not have symbols; they should be symbols. How does a man become a symbol? By standing for something!

A test each of us may apply consists of the self-interrogation: Of what do I remind people, when they think of me? What image do I invoke? The way in which we express ourselves impresses itself upon the people whose lives we touch.

If we present useful ideas by the way we live, if some good thing comes alive in us, and radiates beyond us, we become an important symbol, to others.

Being a symbol, rather than merely acquiring symbols, helps us achieve the highest status a man should want to reach: being a man!

When we focus for a moment upon the heroes of history, men who symbolize significance in their own lives, we will discover that few, indeed, have been born to the cloth; most have grown up into greatness.

By the same token, ordinary, simple folk—people who never made, and never will make, the headlines—can stand for something and reflect in their own lives in image of goodness, sometimes even of greatness.

Some of us confuse the volume of sound with its clarity. It does not matter how loudly we proclaim what we are, so long as we know what we are, and then are led out, from ourselves, by the power of inner conviction, to become more than what we are.

Like flagstaffs are we: some are tall and prominent, some small. The glory of a flagstaff, however, is not its size, but the colors it flies.

What colors are you flying? Are you being whipped around in the rat-race for status? Or are you a quiet but proud symbol, showing your real colors—colors which do not fade because they hold fast and remain true to themselves.

King Fisherman Prize

Colwood Boy, Father Ready for Big Trip

By ALEC MERRIMAN

Eleven-year-old Russell Murcheson and his father, Angus, will board a Canadian Pacific Air Lines luxury Britannia jet in Vancouver Friday to start their trip-of-a-lifetime King Fisherman prize vacation in New Zealand.

The timing is appropriate since the 1965 edition of The Daily Colonist's King Fisherman contest opens May 1. This year the big hidden-weight prize will be an all-expense-paid trip to the Eternal City, Rome.

They will spend a day in Honolulu, a few hours in Suva, Fiji, and next Thursday the young Colwood fisherman, who won his trip as a hidden-weight prize with a seven-pound coho from Deep Bay, will be fishing for the famous New Zealand trout at Rotorua.

FULL SCHEDULE

A full schedule of events awaits the King Fisherman travellers who will be guests of the New Zealand Government Travel Commission for 12 days of fabulous fishing and sightseeing. They arrive in Auckland by Canadian Pacific Air Lines flight 301 on Monday and will be met by a New Zealand Travel Commission official.

Tuesday they take the New Zealand Railroad to Waitomo where they will explore aboriginal caves.

On Wednesday they travel by the railroad to Rotorua where they will spend Thursday to Sunday sightseeing and fishing with local experts. Here they will be in the heart of New Zealand's rainbow and brown trout waters ... at a spot where trout can be caught in a stream and thrown into another boiling stream to be cooked.

They will visit the active Waimangu thermal area on the North Island, near Rotorua, passing through a volcanically-created gorge, crossing and recrossing an angrily-boiling stream, and passing such natural wonders as boiling lakes and a hot waterfall, gurgling mud pools, vividly-colored terraces, the largest geyser in the world, steaming cliffs, and exploring a buried village.

WILDLIFE

The next Monday they leave Rotorua by New Zealand Railroad for Tokana where they will be met by a ranger of the wildlife branch of the department of internal affairs who will take them fishing and sightseeing on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Wildlife abounds in the Tokana area and the ranger will make sure they see as many of the animals as possible, which will be a particular thrill for father Angus who is an enthusiastic hunter.

Game is so plentiful in New Zealand that it is a nuisance. There are no seasons, no licences required for hunting, and no restrictions on sending trophies home.

JET FOR HOME

On the Thursday the father and son team will return to Auckland where they will board a Canadian Pacific Air Lines jet Friday to return to Vancouver.

There is big excitement in the Murcheson Colwood household these days.

It will be the first time in an aircraft for both the travellers. Young Russell has his pockets stuffed with expense money from the Colonist and plans to be the big spender with dad along for the ride.

NEXT TIME—ROME

Mother Elsie and sister Heather are only getting a short trip. They will travel to Vancouver to see the King Fisherman couple off.

And if this trip sounds fascinating, remember that on May 1 another King Fisherman Contest starts with a Canadian Pacific Air Lines trip for two to Rome as main hidden weight prize.

School Halts Integration

SHUBENACADIE, N.S. (CP)

A proposal to have 14 Mi'kmaq Indian students from a nearby reserve attend Grade 6 at a previously all-white elementary school here has been shelved by the federal Indian affairs branch following a heated controversy.

However, school board officials in the central Nova Scotia village say there is no question of discrimination, but some teachers and parents fear the presence of the Indian children would have a detrimental effect on the educational standards of the school.

Dr. D. Ross McInnis, chairman of the Shubenacadie school trustees, has said Indians in the area are being subjected to segregation and treated as second-class citizens.

"Segregation has resulted in drunkenness, immorality, violence and laziness becoming a part of life on the reserve."

COMING OF AGE

With Sally Hamilton

Question: "My husband has just retired. Both of us are interested in children but our own are grown up and gone away, and we only see our grandchildren on rare occasions."

We are wondering if it is possible for us to take a few youngsters from broken homes, or orphaned, for outings on Sundays. We could go for a drive and a picnic. We would like to pick them up in the morning and take them back at night. Color or religion of the children wouldn't matter.

My grandmother raised two foster children and did a wonderful job.

Answer: Children need grandparents just as much as they ever did but many live too far away to ever see their own relatives.

There's a woman in our town who makes a point of having one or more children from a local children's home at least every couple of weeks as guests for dinner.

The kids love it, not to mention the gratitude of workers who try with all that is in them to give the children in their care normal lives, complete with grandmothers or reasonable facsimiles.

Have a personal talk with a senior welfare official. You'll find there's plenty to do!

Question: I am in my late 50's. My six children are grown up and now I find myself very lonely and life seems pointless. We have practically no social life. I would love to keep on learning and to help others in some way. I would join clubs but what clubs?

Answer: I have sent you separately a copy of my leaflet "Learning for Living". This tells you how to find out about every conceivable kind of correspondence course; also tells about night school courses for all levels of education. There are other suggestions as to interesting studies that are available for groups in the leaflet.

As for joining a club, I gather from your letter that there is no friendship club near you. How about making some inquiries amongst your neighbors and friends to find out if one is wanted?

If you find that enough persons would be interested to make it worthwhile, then my "Tips In Organizing Friendship Clubs" will be a help. You will see that, besides telling you how to get going, it contains some good ideas for programs.

I can guarantee you some happy times, some new friends and a new lease on living if you will throw yourself into a project such as this.

Question: My father is nearly 70 and in the last few years he has changed completely. He sleeps most of the time. When we ask him to do anything, he gets mad and yells. Then he sulks and won't speak for a long time. What is wrong? What can we do?

Answer: People sometimes do change as they grow older. It is natural for your father to slow down at his age. If, however, there has been a drastic change in his behavior, perhaps he has a medical problem. Talk with your family doctor first and see what he suggests. Could you persuade your father to have a thorough check-up?

Students To Greet New Citizens

Victoria will have 29 new Canadian citizens after a citizenship ceremony April 28.

A group of students from Victoria senior high will watch the ceremony, as the new Canadians receive their certificates.

Address of welcome will be given by Douglas R. Abbott, on behalf of Greater Victoria Citizenship Council.

Following the ceremony at the law courts at 10 a.m., new citizens will be guests of the council at a coffee party at the YWCA.

'MANGLED MONEY' MASSACRE

*Constable, Wife
Six Children Dead*

VANCOUVER (CP) — A family of eight was found shot to death Wednesday and police linked the massacre to a $1,250,000 "mangled money" robbery.

Leonard Hogue, 34, a Vancouver city police constable, his wife Vera and their six children—Larry, 13; Norven, 12; Raymond, 8; Clifford, 6; Darlene, 5, and Richard, 3—were found dead, shot through the head with slugs from a heavy .357-calibre magnum revolver.

Said an RCMP spokesman:

"We are assuming for the present that the man shot the other members of the family and committed suicide."

The RCMP is responsible for law enforcement in the suburb of Coquitlam, where the bodies were found in the Hagues' neat, white, green-shuttered house.

Police said all the victims were clad in night attire except Hogue, who was partly dressed.

The said it appeared that the children were stalked through the house as they attempted to hide.

Hogue's body was found in bed.

The shootings are believed to have occurred late Monday or early Tuesday. The blood-soaked scene was discovered by Vancouver policemen who called after Hogue did not report for duty.

One of the policemen said:

"It was a horrible mess."

Deputy Police Chief John Fisk of Vancouver said in a statement that Hogue was being investigated in connection with the Feb. 11 robbery of the Vancouver warehouse of Canadian Pacific Merchandise Service Ltd. in which $1,250,000 in defaced money — destined for destruction at the mint at Ottawa — was stolen. Three men — two of them armed — pulled off the robbery.

THIRD MAN

He said investigation of Hogue came about "in the light of the recent arrest of former Vancouver policeman Joseph Percival in Edmonton."

Police said a third man — a member of the Vancouver force still on duty — was also under investigation. Name of the third man was not released.

SEEN MONDAY

The Hogue family was last seen by neighbors on Monday.

A neighbor said they were "close, quiet family — good people who went to church and Sunday school."

Police had looked through a basement window and seen the

25 Dead

Four

Mass slayings Tuesday and Wednesday claimed a total of 25 lives in Canada and three American states.

A New Hampshire father surrendered to a minister Wednesday shortly after his wife and four children were found shot to death.

Police said an enraged New Jersey father loaded his family of 10 into his car at midpoint minutes before it crashed into a truck, killing eight.

STRANGLINGS

Authorities said they would file first-degree murder charges against an Indiana mother in the stranglings of her four children.

In another apparent case of mass parricide, a policeman, his wife and their six children were found shot to death in their suburban home near Vancouver. Police called it a murder-suicide.

SHOT WITH RIFLE

In the New Hampshire slayings, Mrs. Janet Sargent, 33, and her children, Michael, 9, William, 8, Jack, 7, and Lynne, 3, were found dead in their two-story red frame home near the hill village of New London.

Each had been shot with a rifle. Jack Sargent, 38, former poultry farmer in training as an insurance agent, was taken into custody shortly after allegedly confessing the killings to a minister.

'I'M GOING TO KILL'

At Newark, N.J., police said Wednesday witnesses told them that Arthur Sherod, 37, became angry with his wife in a restaurant Tuesday night and announced, "I'm going to kill the whole family."

The witnesses said Sherod, an unemployed laborer, herded his wife, 37, a waitress, and their nine children into their newly purchased car and drove off.

EIGHT DEAD

Minutes later the Sherod car swerved across a four-lane highway near the Newark airport and collided with a truck. Mrs. Sherod and seven of the children, Mary, 18, Annie Jean, 16, Jessie, 15, James 14, Jonathan, 8, Wanda, 3, and Kathy, 2 were killed.

Sherod and two other children, Charles, 12, and Dianne, 4, were seriously hurt.

RAZOR SLASHES

At South Bend, Ind., authorities said they would file a first-degree murder charge today against Mrs. Diana Hamby, 28.

Mrs. Hamby was in good condition in a hospital where she was under treatment for razor blade slashes in her ankles, wrists and neck which authorities said were self-inflicted. She was found in the burning Hamby home Tuesday by a friend, whom she had telephoned and purportedly told that she had "killed the children."

Steel Strike

Looms Bigger

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Contract talks aimed at averting a May 1 steel strike stalled Wednesday with no further meetings scheduled, and the industry issued preliminary instructions for shutting down the mills.

Union sources said strike authorization was expected today.

'Klansman' Missing

KLAN HAS PLANS FOR U.K.

LONDON (UPI) — Robert Shelton, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, has disclosed the Klan plans to open branches in Britain.

"The Klan is getting many letters of support from Britain," Shelton said. Shelton claimed the Klan is an "undercover organization to investigate Communist trends and activities in America."

England has had some racial problems recently following an influx of colored workers, mostly from the West Indies.

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Boise police Wednesday found the car belonging to Paul L. Belleson, the Nampa, Idaho, Negro who joined the Ku Klux Klan last month on a lark.

Belleson has been missing from his home since Tuesday morning and his wife told police she suspected foul play.

Viet Nam Crisis At Glance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington — Defence Secretary Robert McNamara announced increase to $300,000,000 from $297,000,000 in U.S. military aid to South Viet Nam in the fiscal year ending June 30. Money will help expand South Viet Nam's army and provide more firepower and helicopters.

Belgium — U.S. and South Vietnamese pilots blast trucks, trains and boats above 17th parallel in effort to make travel in North Viet Nam as hazardous as on Viet Cong-menaced highways in south. Nearly 80 planes carry out sorties around the clock. All planes return, briefing officers say.

Tokyo — China says the U.S. has transformed South Viet Nam into colony that must be destroyed. Chinese join Soviet and North Vietnamese in propaganda chorus against the U.S. Hanoi insists Viet Cong only genuine representative of South Vietnamese.

Moscow — Tass news agency commentator charges President Johnson's offer to talk peace without conditions was camouflage over buildup of "American aggressive forces in Viet Nam."

New York — U Thant, United Nations secretary-general, tells American Newspaper Publishers Association Viet Nam problem "affects the whole atmosphere of international relations" in and outside UN. He again offers his help to achieve a settlement. Through a UN spokesman, Thant says he believes situation in Viet Nam has deteriorated in the last few days.

Washington — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana calls for U.S. support of Soviet proposal to reconvene a Geneva conference for possible Viet Nam peace moves.

The Nampa junior's car was found at 13th and River streets in Boise.

Police checked out a report from a neighbor who claimed he saw Belleson leave a plane at either Los Angeles or San Francisco Tuesday but officers said they did not put too much stock in the story because time differences do not fit. Police in Idaho had an all-points bulletin out for the missing man.

Belleson's wife said she feared for her husband's life.

"If I know Paul like I do," she said, "I think out of concern for his family he would call or come home. It is not like Paul to take off like this."

Belleson caused a stir by being accepted for membership in the KKK. When Grand Wizard James Venable learned that Belleson is a Negro he revoked his membership and returned his $15 entrance fee.

Venable called Belleson's membership "fraudulent usage of the United States mails."

The 32-year-old Belleson owns and operates a maintenance service in Nampa. He and his wife have two children.

Drifting Boat Found; Search Today

Cedar Boy Lost at Sea

NANAIMO (Special) — A full-scale search will start at dawn today for a 15-year-old resident of nearby Cedar who disappeared Wednesday afternoon while swimming from his drifting boat.

Terence Robert La Fortune vanished just after reaching the 14-foot outboard motorboat, which was found empty and still adrift a few hours later.

The search forces will include district RCMP, the Nanaimo harbor patrol, the boy's father and Cedar residents — most of whom scoured the area until dark last night.

Police said they were advised young La Fortune and Sharon Salmark, 13, of Code Road in Ladysmith, went fishing off Cedar Wednesday afternoon in his parents' boat.

During the fishing expedition, the two decided to go ashore on DeCourcy Island, about midway in the five-mile stretch of water between Cedar and the Gulf Islands.

Soon after landing, the boy and the boat had drifted away from the shore.

Young La Fortune told the girl to stay on the beach and began to swim after the boat.

The discovery was made by a Cedar resident named Fiddick on his fishboat and the crew of an unnamed tug.

Miss Salmark later was taken to Gabriola Island from DeCourcy before continuing home.

Printers Approve Contract

VANCOUVER (CP) — Printers on the Vancouver Sun and Province daily newspapers gave unanimous approval Wednesday night to a new three-year contract.

Their vote came after officials of the International Typographical Union (ITU) explained the package worked out last Friday with Pacific Press Ltd., publishers of both papers.

The settlement came with a strike threat hanging over final negotiations.

Steel Strike Looms Bigger

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Contract talks aimed at averting a May 1 steel strike stalled Wednesday with no further meetings scheduled, and the industry issued preliminary instructions for shutting down the mills.

Union sources said strike authorization was expected today.

West Coast General

Total of Patients Drops Sharply

PORT ALBERNI — A sharp decrease in the number of patients in West Coast General Hospital during the first quarter of 1965 has been reported by the hospital board.

Officials say there were 120 fewer adult and children admissions and 16 fewer newborn patients than during the first quarter of 1964.

ROUTINE TEST — Patient days dropped by 444, of which 98 were newborn patient days.

The board report also said the hospital has adopted as routine a test for metabolic disorders in newborn babies.

The test, called PKU, may result in early discovery of a condition which could lead to mental retardation. The condition occurs only once in about 15,000 births.

Officials also said West Coast General has been designated as an observation unit under the new provincial mental health act.

APPROVED UNIT — This provides for the confinement of mental cases for up to 72 hours, during which time arrangements must be made to transfer the patients to an approved psychiatric treatment unit.

Hi-C Conference

Show Some Strength Youngsters Advised

By IAN ARBOLE

The youth of today is conservative, cautious and unadventurous—old before its time—Rev. William Van Druten of Langford has told 140 high school students gathered in First United Church for a three-day Hi-C conference.

"You are the most unlikely to rebel, to concern yourself with causes," he said. "And you like yourself the way you are."

Rob Nelson, the church's Christian education director, said the three-day conference which ends today aims "to bring young people of the Island together to share ideas and fellowship so they may discover what Christian faith means in the world we live in today."

and Victoria to grow up intellectually — "for Christ's sake."

"Don't let the world squeeze you into its mold. Let God remodel your mind from within."

He saw in the use made today of mass media the danger that the soul of the nation might be destroyed.

Moral Junk

His main target was TV with its "endless procession of moral junk."

"Television could be used to inspire, to inform, to educate millions. Now it would seem nothing more than an advertising medium."

"Little kids can sing all the commercials before they learn anything else."

Mockery

The shows themselves, the minister felt, made a mockery of the morals youth has been taught.

"We are heading into danger. There is no longer certainty between right and wrong — as witness the beatniks, the racists, the pregnant high school girl, the uncared-for aged."

"Who is responsible?"

Pass Blame

"A listener blames the TV or radio manager. The manager blames the sponsor. The sponsor blames the general public."

"In order to sell his product, the sponsor feels he has to give what the general public want. 'You are part of the general public,' he told the young people. 'Protect the bad, commend the good. You are the ones who eventually determine what we shall have.'"

Awaken Thought

Mr. Van Druten spoke to the Hi-C conference on the general theme For Heaven's Sake, Grow Up. His comments were not intended as "the last word," but as sparks to awaken thought and ideas in the discussion sessions — in groups of 10—which followed.

Other features of the conference—sock hops (dancing without shoes), sing-alongs, sloppy joe supper (chili poured over hamburger buns), mug up (a hot chocolate before heading for the home toilet), banquet, dance and communion — all in the Christian Education Building of the church.

NANAIMO—A. R. Glen, secretary-treasurer of the Harewood Improvement district, is the new chairman of the Greater Nanaimo water district.

He succeeds John Baraby who headed the water board since it began operation 10 years ago. Mr. Baraby will remain on the board as vice-chairman.

Mrs. Babs Howden of Wellington (lakes over from Robert and communion — all in the Christian Education Building of the church.

Duncan Recreation Idea

Chamber Pressing

DUNCAN—The issue of a city recreation commission in Duncan isn't dead yet.

The Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, meeting Wednesday, instructed secretary Art Stevenson to arrange a meeting of city council and a Chamber delegation to discuss the recreation idea.

Council has met similar proposals recently with statements indicating it feels some other group should start the commission.

The Chamber has asked representatives of local service clubs to attend the city-Chamber meeting to support the idea.

The meeting will also discuss a request for an increase in the annual city grant to the Chamber and Mr. Stevenson was asked to set up a similar meeting with North Cowichan council.

Local bank manager David Pollock took the chair as president for the first time at the meeting, which elected Sam Keeble as vice-president and Dr. Mel Smith and Fred Green as directors.

Will Dobson, Chamber representative on the Cowichan Valley Forest Museum Society, and directors Pat Rogers and Cliff Pascoe were named to a committee to help the society promote its official opening during the May 24 weekend.

The Chamber went on record as being in full support of the museum project.

Mr. Dobson and director William Jamieson favored continuation of the Chamber policy of one vote per member, regardless of how much the member's dues are. A possible change in policy was referred to the next meeting.

Directors approved Mr. Rogers' suggestion that the highways department be asked to build a pedestrian footpath across the Somers bridge on Trunk Road.

Chamber Joins Pollution Fight

CHEMAINUS—The Chemainus-Crofton Chamber of Commerce voted Tuesday night to give full support to the Crofton ratepayers' fight against pulp mill pollution.

The Chamber will ask the ratepayers to report on all further developments during the campaign.

After Crash

Dayliner Painted In Bright Colors

NORTH COWICHAN—The Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway Dayliner train has been repainted since an almost-fatal collision with a car at a Chemainus crossing earlier this month, North Cowichan council learned Wednesday.

Coun. Gerry Smith said the Dayliner involved in the crash with a car driven by Chemainus resident Bentley Meigh, 25, has been painted with bright colors since the accident.

Council decided to ask the federal transport department if flashing warning signals can be installed at the Crozier and Henry roads crossings. The accident occurred at the Crozier crossing.

Reeve Donald Morton said installation of the warning device would probably take a long time. In the meantime, bright street lights have been ordered for the two crossings.

North Cowichan would have to pay one-eighth of the installation cost and half of the annual maintenance cost. Mr. Meigh remains in fairly good condition in Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital.

NORTH COWICHAN—The municipal council of North Cowichan put wheels in motion Wednesday afternoon in the first council support for a campaign against air and water pollution at Crofton.

The Crofton Ratepayers' Association recently announced a campaign seeking to "eliminate the nuisance" of air and water pollution it blamed on the B.C. Forest Products mill, and asked councils and other organizations for support.

Council decided to write a letter to B.C. Forest Products at Crofton asking for comments, especially on what can be done to eliminate the problem.

FIRST STEP

Reeve Donald Morton said the letter would be "a preliminary step" to assist the ratepayers and Coun. Gerry Smith said he felt the company probably will do what it can.

The council decision followed reading of a letter from the ratepayers saying the odor from the pulp mill is unpleasant but the main concern is with "air contamination by chemicals and soot or flyash fallout."

FALLOUT PROBLEM

The ratepayers said increased fallout "continuously contaminates houses, cars, washing and people."

Council also passed a resolution which will ask the annual Island municipalities meeting May 27 to consider asking for a Municipal Act change allowing B.C. municipalities to post reward money.

VANDALISM

The proposal follows recent acts of vandalism in Chemainus which prompted Coun. Smith, Reeve Morton and the Chemainus community centre to put out rewards.

Ontario municipalities can post rewards and the reeve said he felt the North Cowichan move "will get the ball rolling" in B.C.

Wade, Stockhill and Armour, the Victoria architects who won the job of designing the $215,000 centennial arena at Fuller's Lake, were asked to prepare first plans including a sketch of the completed project.

MONEY BYLAW

Council and the municipal recreation commission will get their first look at the plans April 29. A money bylaw on the matter will go before taxpayers this summer or in September.

In reply to a request for stricter control of logging operators in Maple Mountain Park, forestry committee chairman Coun. Dennis Hogan said there is "no indiscriminate logging" on the mountain.

LOGGING CLEAN

The logging is "quite clean" and is under the control of a professional consulting forest engineer. During a recent inspection tour, Coun. Hogan found only "some slash" along the road.

Opposition was voiced to a recommendation from city peace officer Tom Brunton that a board fence be built on Lang Street in Chemainus to prevent littering of properties by school children.

UP TO STUDENTS

Instead, the Chemainus high school principal will be asked to advise his students to stop scattering papers.

Council set Friday as the date for the 1965 budget meeting and decided to meet Crofton ratepayers May 4 to discuss a number of items.

SEWER APPROVED

An application to the federal municipal development loan fund for Quamichan Heights sewer system aid was approved, and both the sewer bylaw and the Arbutus Avenue expropriation bylaw were passed.

Council also:

● Left: the provincial pollution control board will attend a public hearing soon on proposed sewer projects in Chemainus and the southern part of North Cowichan.

● Decided to call tenders for $195,000 worth of debentures under the Cowichan district hospital bylaw.

● Granted a request from Chemainus Klansmen for a swimming instructor and lifeguard at Chemainus beach this summer.

● Approved a stop sign at Nimmo and Chemainus roads to control gravel truck traffic.

Nothing But Best For Army Hopeful

NANAIMO—Mrs. Isabelle J. Adams, a mother of three and a welfare recipient, told Magistrate Eric Winch in magistrate's court Wednesday she had a good reason for taking sirlin rather than hamburger.

She was given a three-month suspended sentence for taking four sirlin steaks and four Easter eggs from a supermarket, and her reason was the steak would help build up her 21-year-old son so he can pass an army physical.

Courtenay Airport

Things Just Fine —Or Are They?

COURTENAY—Is there harmony or discord between city council and the Courtenay-Cornox Chamber of Commerce on the civic airport topic?

Chamber airport committee chairman David Kirk told a recent Chamber meeting past differences with council had been resolved and harmony now reigned.

But at city council Tuesday night, Ald. Geoffrey Browning said, "I feel we've gone as far as we should as a council. I think at this stage we should back out."

NEW DEVELOPMENT

He spoke after suggesting a new development in the controversy be referred to the Chamber airport committee.

The development was a letter from B.C. Aviation Council official E. W. Brown outlining new federal regulations and stating a local body must assume full responsibility for their development.

FOUR PROPOSALS

Four traffic proposals from RCMP detachment head Sgt. E. H. Fleetwood were handed to the protection committee for a survey on a Friday night when stores are open until 9 p.m.

Sgt. Fleetwood said:

● The green arrow directional light at 5th and Cliffe is causing confusion and should be eliminated. Some drivers feel they can only turn left in the few seconds the arrow is lit.

● The new lights at 5th and Duncan require further study. Traffic is backed up, especially at peak hours, blocking Duncan Avenue.

● The directional arrows on Cliffe should be repainted.

● The last parking meters on the corner of 5th and Cliffe and 5th and Duncan should be removed to facilitate turns by drivers.

Council decided the city will supply sewer and water connections for the new school for mentally handicapped children, to be located on the elementary school grounds, but the school board must pay the cost.

Hi-C Conference

Show Some Strength Youngsters Advised

By IAN ARBOL

The youth of today is conservative, cautious and unadventurous—old before its time—Rev. William Van Druten of Langford has told 140 high school students gathered in First United Church for a three-day Hi-C conference.

You are the most unlikely to rebel, to concern yourself with "raucous," he said. "And you like yourself the way you are."

Rob Nelson, the church's Christian education director, said the three-day conference which ends today aims "to bring young people of the Island together to share ideas and fellowship so they may discover what Christian faith means in the world we live in today."

Grow Up

Mr. Van Druten challenged the boys and girls from Campbell River, Parksville, Alberni, Port Alberni, Ucluelet, Quadra Island, Wellington, Nanaimo and Victoria to grow up intelligently — "for Christ's sake."

"Don't let the world squeeze you into its mold. Let God remodel your mind from within."

He saw in the use made today of mass media the danger that the soul of the nation might be destroyed.

Moral junk

His main target was TV with its "endless procession of moral junk."

"Television could be used to inspire, to inform, to educate millions. Now it would seem nothing more than an advertising medium."

"Little kids can sing all the commercials before they learn anything else."

Mockery

The shows themselves, the minister felt, made a mockery of the morals youth has been taught.

"We are heading into danger. There is no longer certainty between right and wrong — as witness the beatniks, the racists, the pregnant high school girl, the uncared-for aged."

"Who is responsible?"

Pass Blame

"A listener blames the TV or radio manager. The manager blames the sponsor. The sponsor blames the general public."

"In order to sell his product, the sponsor feels he has to give what the general public want. You are part of the general public," he told the young people. "Protest the bad, commend the good. You are the ones who eventually determine what we shall have."

Awaken Thought

Mr. Van Druten spoke to the Hi-C conference on the general theme For Heaven's Sake, Grow Up. His comments were not intended as "the last word," but as sparks to awaken thought and ideas in the discussion sessions — in groups of 10 — which followed.

Other features of the conference—sock hops (dancing without shoes), sing-songs, sloppy joe supper (chili poured over hamburger buns), mug up (a hot chocolate before heading for the home billet), banquet, dance and communion — all in the Christian Education Building of the church.

NANAIMO—A. R. Glen, secretary-treasurer of the Harewood Improvement district, is the new chairman of the Greater Nanaimo water district.

He succeeds John Barsby who headed the water board since it began operation 10 years ago. Mr. Barsby will remain on the board as vice-chairman.

Mrs. Babs Howden of Wellington takes over from Robert Kelly of Departure Bay as representative of a district other than Nanaimo and Harewood.

Chamber Joins Pollution Fight

CHEMAMOUS—The Chemainus-Crofton Chamber of Commerce voted Tuesday night to give full support to the Crofton ratepayers' fight against pulp mill pollution.

The Chamber will ask the ratepayers to report on all further developments during the campaign.

After Crash

Dayliner Painted In Bright Colors

NORTH COWICHAN—The Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway Dayliner train has been repainted since an almost-fatal collision with a car at a Chemainus crossing earlier this month. North Cowichan council learned Wednesday.

Coun. Gerry Smith said the Dayliner involved in the crash with a car driven by Chemainus resident Bentley Medd, 25, has been painted with bright colors since the accident.

Council decided to ask the federal transport department if flashing warning signals can be installed at the Crozier and Henry roads crossings. The accident occurred at the Crozier crossing.

Reeve Donald Morton said installation of the warning device would probably take a long time. In the meantime, bright street lights have been ordered for the two crossings.

North Cowichan would have to pay one-eighth of the installation cost and half of the annual maintenance cost. Mr. Medd remains in fairly good condition in Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Sloppy Joe supper served by Wanda Bradley, 15, of 2557 Wesley Place, to Charlie Easton, 16, Port Alberni.

Chamber Pressing

DUNCAN—The issue of a city recreation commission in Duncan isn't dead yet.

The Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, meeting Wednesday, instructed secretary Art Stevenson to arrange a meeting of city council and a Chamber delegation to discuss the recreation idea.

Council has met similar proposals recently with statements indicating it feels some other group should start the commission.

The Chamber has asked representatives of local service clubs to attend the city-Chamber meeting to support the idea.

The meeting will also discuss a request for an increase in the annual city grant to the Chamber and Mr. Stevenson was asked to set up a similar meeting with North Cowichan council.

Local bank manager David Pollock took the chair as president for the first time at the meeting, which elected Sam Keeble as vice-president and Dr. Mel Smith and Fred Green as directors.

Will Dobson, Chamber representative on the Cowichan Valley Forest Museum Society, and directors Pat Rogers and Cliff Pascoe were named to a committee to help the society promote its official opening during the May 24 weekend.

The Chamber went on record as being in full support of the museum project.

Mr. Dobson and director William Jamieson favored continuation of the Chamber policy of one vote per member, regardless of how much the member's dues are. A possible change in policy was referred to the next meeting.

Directors approved Mr. Rogers' suggestion that the highways department be asked to build a pedestrian footpath across the Somenos bridge on Trunk Road.

NORTH COWICHAN — The municipal council of North Cowichan put wheels in motion Wednesday afternoon in the first council support for a campaign against air and water pollution at Crofton.

The Crofton Ratepayers' Association recently announced a campaign seeking to "eliminate the nuisance" of air and water pollution it blamed on the B.C. Forest Products mill, and asked councils and other organizations for support.

Council decided to write a letter to B.C. Forest Products at Crofton asking for comments, especially on what can be done to eliminate the problem.

FIRST STEP

Reeve Donald Morton said the letter would be "a preliminary step" to assist the ratepayers and Coun. Gerry Smith said he felt the company probably will do what it can.

The council decision followed reading of a letter from the ratepayers saying the odor from the pulp mill is unpleasant but the main concern is with "air contamination by chemicals and soot or flyash fallout."

FALLOUT PROBLEM

The ratepayers said increased fallout "continuously contaminates houses, cars, washing and people."

Council also passed a resolution which will ask the annual Island municipalities meeting May 27 to consider asking for a Municipal Act change allowing B.C. municipalities to post reward money.

VANDALISM

The proposal follows recent acts of vandalism in Chemainus which prompted Coun. Smith, Reeve Morton and the Chemainus community centre to put up rewards.

Ontario municipalities can post rewards and the reeve said he felt the North Cowichan move "will get the ball rolling" in B.C.

Wade, Stockhill and Armour, the Victoria architects who won the job of designing the $215,000 centennial arena at Fuller's Lake, were asked to prepare first plans including a sketch of the completed project.

MONEY BYLAW

Council and the municipal recreation commission will get their first look at the plans April 23. A money bylaw on the matter will go before taxpayers this summer or in September.

In reply to a request for stricter control of logging operators in Maple Mountain Park, forestry committee chairman Coun. Dennis Hogan said there is "no indiscriminate logging" on the mountain.

LOGGING CLEAN

The logging is "quite clean" and is under the control of a professional consulting forest engineer. During a recent inspection tour, Coun. Hogan found only "some slash" along the road.

Opposition was voiced to a recommendation from city peace officer Tom Brunton that a board fence be built on Lang Street in Chemainus to prevent littering of properties by school children.

UP TO STUDENTS

Instead, the Chemainus high school principal will be asked to advise his students to stop scattering papers.

Council set Friday as the date for the 1965 budget meeting and decided to meet Crofton ratepayers May 4 to discuss a number of items.

SEWER APPROVED

An application to the federal municipal development loan fund for Quamichan Heights sewer system aid was approved, and both the sewer bylaw and the Arbutus Avenue expropriation bylaw were passed.

COUNCIL ALSO:

● Letted the provincial pollution control board will attend a public hearing soon on proposed sewer projects in Chemainus and the southern part of North Cowichan.

● Decided to call tenders for $125,000 worth of debentures under the Cowichan district hospital bylaw.

● Granted a request from Chemainus Klansmen for a swimming instructor and lifeguard at Chemainus beach this summer.

● Approved a stop sign at Nimmo and Chemainus roads to control gravel truck traffic.

Nothing But Best For Army Hopeful

NANAIMO—Mrs. Isobelle J. Adams, a mother of three and a welfare recipient, told Magistrate Eric Winch in magistrate's court Wednesday she had a good reason for taking sirloin rather than hamburger.

She was given a three-month suspended sentence for taking four sirloin steaks and four Easter eggs from a supermarket, and her reason was the steak would help build up her 21-year-old son so he can pass an army physical.

Courtenay Airport

Things Just Fine —Or Are They?

COURTENAY — Is there harmony or discord between city council and the Courtenay-Cornwall Chamber of Commerce on the civic airport topic?

Chamber airport committee chairman David Kirk told a recent Chamber meeting past differences with council had been resolved and harmony now reigned.

But at city council Tuesday night, Ald. Geoffrey Browning said, "I feel we've gone as far as we should as a council. I think at this stage we should back out."

NEW DEVELOPMENT

He spoke after suggesting a new development in the controversy be referred to the Chamber airport committee.

The development was a letter from B.C. Aviation Council official E. W. Brown outlining new federal regulations and assistance for airports and stating a local body must assume full responsibility for their development.

FOUR PROPOSALS

Four traffic proposals from RCMP detachment head Sgt. E. H. Fleetwood were handed to the protection committee for a survey on a Friday night when stores are open until 9 p.m.

Sgt. Fleetwood said:

● The green arrow directional light at 5th and Cliffe is causing confusion and should be eliminated. Some drivers feel they can only turn left in the few seconds the arrow is lit.

● The new lights at 5th and Duncan require further study. Traffic is backed up, especially at peak hours, blocking Duncan Avenue.

● The directional arrows on Cliffe should be repainted.

● The last parking meters on the corner of 5th and Cliffe and 5th and Duncan should be removed to facilitate turns by drivers.

Council decided the city will supply sewer and water connections for the new school for mentally handicapped children, to be located on the elementary school grounds, but the school board must pay the cost.

STARTS TODAY

Clerk-administrator W. C. Moore said the road surfacing program will start today and 18,000 feet of sidewalk has been laid to date, slightly less than half the footage in the sidewalk scheme.

In other matters, $750 will be spent to buy 10 cedar float logs to replace badly worn floats at the civic marina, Bayshore Logging was given the cemetery tree removal contract and cemetery rates for stillborn babies and cremated remains were reduced to $15 from $30.

Lake Cowichan

Board to Test Educational TV

LAKE COWICHAN — The Lake Cowichan school board has decided to investigate the possibility of setting up a demonstration of educational television.

After trustee Mrs. David Sharp reported on a recent group study of educational TV, the board decided to get in touch with authorities in the field. The demonstration will be held either here or in Duncan.

Thomas Beames, now taking a master's degree at Corvallis, Ore., was named special counselor. His duties will be mainly in elementary schools and will be shared between the Lake and Ladysmith school districts, starting in September.

MORE EQUIPMENT

The board voted to accept an offer from the Lake Cowichan PTA to contribute $170 toward the $125 cost of a "climber" needed to complete playground equipment recently installed at J. H. Boyd Elementary School.

The board will install the equipment. Buildings and grounds chairman Ben Gibson said recommendations to improve the drains under the high school playing grounds will be brought to a later meeting.

SCHOOL GROUNDS

He also said the board's maintenance crew hopes to complete levelling and seeding on the Honeymoon Bay Elementary School grounds within the next few weeks.

The low bid of $635, from Peterson Plumbing and Heating, was accepted for a furnace at the Youhou teaching. Watson Electric and Heating submitted the only other bid, $675.

'National' Story Today?

DUNCAN — A hint that a major announcement may be made today was given Wednesday by Mayor Jack Dobson.

The mayor, city council members and the Cowichan Indian band council will attend the sod-turning ceremony for Cowichan Way at 3:30 p.m. today and the mayor said, "This might even be a national story."

Cowichan Way is the key road from the city for the proposed industrial and commercial development of 35 acres of Indian land between Trunk Road, the Cowichan River and the highway. Dobson's Transport will be the first firm in the area.

Mass slayings Tuesday and Wednesday claimed a total of 25 lives in Canada and three American states.

A New Hampshire father surrendered to a minister Wednesday shortly after his wife and four children were found shot to death.

Police said an enraged New Jersey father loaded his family of 10 into his car at midnight minutes before it crashed into a truck, killing eight.

STRANGLINGS
Authorities said they would file first-degree murder charges against an Indiana mother in the slayings of her four children.

In another apparent case of mass parricide, a policeman, his wife and their six children were found shot to death in their suburban home near Vancouver. Police called it a murder-suicide.

SHOT WITH RIFLE
In the New Hampshire slayings, Mrs. Janet Sargent, 30, and her children, Michael, 9, William, 8, Jack, 7, and Lynn, 3, were found dead in their two-story red frame home near the hill village of New London.

Jack Sargent, 28, former poultry farmer in training, as an insurance agent, was taken into custody shortly after allegedly confessing the killings to a minister.

"I'M GOING TO KILL"
At Newark, N.J., police said Wednesday witnesses told them that Arthur Sherod, 37, became angry with his wife in a restaurant Tuesday night and announced, "I'm going to kill the whole family."

The witnesses said Sherod, an unemployed laborer, hurled his wife, 37, a waitress, and their nine children into their newly purchased car and drove off.

EIGHT DIED
Minutes later the Sherod car swerved across a four-lane highway near the Newark airport and collided with a truck. Mrs. Sherod and seven of the children, Mary, 18, Annie Jean, 16, Jessie, 15, James 14, Jonathan, 13, Wanda, 3, and Kathy, 2, were killed.

Sherod and two other children, Charles, 12, and Diane, 4, were seriously hurt.

RAZOR SLASHES
At South Bend, Ind., authorities said they would file a first-degree murder charge today against Mrs. Diana Hamby, 38.

Mrs. Hamby was in good condition in a hospital where she was under treatment for razor blade slashes in her ankles, wrists and neck which authorities said were self-inflicted. She was found in the burning Hamby home Tuesday by a friend, whom she had telephoned and purportedly told that she had "killed the children."

Steel Strike
Looms Bigger
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Contract talks aimed at averting a May 1 steel strike stalled Wednesday with no further meetings scheduled, and the industry issued preliminary instructions for shutting down the mills.

Union sources said strike authorization was expected today.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A family of eight was found shot to death Wednesday and police linked the massacre to a $1,250,000 "mangled money" robbery.

Leonard Hogue, 34, a Vancouver city police constable, his wife Vera and their six children—Larry, 13; Noreen, 12; Raymond, 8; Clifford, 6; Darlene, 5; and Richard, 3—were found dead, shot through the head with slugs from a heavy .357-calibre magnum revolver.

Said an RCMP spokesman:

"We are assuming for the present that the man shot the other members of the family and committed suicide."

The RCMP is responsible for law enforcement in the suburb of Coquitlam, where the bodies were found in the Hogues' neat, white, green-shuttered house.

Police said all the victims were clad in night attire except Hogue, who was partly dressed.

They said it appeared that the children were stalked through the house as they attempted to hide.

Mrs. Hogue's body was found in bed.

The shootings are believed to have occurred late Monday or early Tuesday. The blood-soaked scene was discovered by Vancouver policemen who called after Hogue did not report for duty.

One of the policemen said: "It was a horrible mess."

Deputy Police Chief John Fink of Vancouver said in a statement that Hogue was being investigated in connection with the Feb. 11 robbery of the Vancouver warehouse of Canadian Pacific Merchandise Service Ltd. in which $1,250,000 in defaced money—destined for destruction at the mint at Ottawa—was stolen. Three men—two of them armed—pulled off the robbery.

He said investigation of Hogue came about "in the light of the recent arrest of former Vancouver policeman Joseph Percival in Edmonton."

Police said a third man—a member of the Vancouver force still on duty—was also under investigation. Name of the third man was not released.

SEEN MONDAY
The Hogue family was last seen by neighbors on Monday.

A neighbor said they were "close, quiet family—good people who went to church and Sunday school."

Drifting Boat Found; Search Today

Cedar Boy Lost at Sea

NANAIMO (Special) — A full-scale search will start at dawn today for a 15-year-old resident of nearby Cedar who disappeared Wednesday afternoon while swimming after his drifting boat.

Terence Robert La Fortune vanished just after reaching the 14-foot outboard motorboat, which was found empty and still adrift a few hours later.

The search force will include district RCMP, the Nanaimo harbor patrol, the boy's father and Cedar residents—most of whom secured the area until dark last night.

Police said they were advised young La Fortune and Sharon Salmark, 13, of Cedar Road in Ladysmith, went fishing off Cedar Wednesday afternoon in his parents' boat.

During the fishing expedition, the two decided to go ashore on DeCourcy Island, about midway in the five-mile stretch of water between Cedar and the Gulf Islands.

Soon after landing, they noticed the boat had drifted away from the shore.

Young La Fortune told the girl to stay on the beach and began to swim after the boat.

Police were told he had just reached the side of the boat when it drifted around a point not far from the beach.

Miss Salmark spread the alarm and the boat was found about 4:30 p.m. near Dodds Narrows, a slender strip separating the waters off Nanaimo from those off Cedar.

The discovery was made by a Cedar resident named Fiddick on his fishboat and the crew of an unnamed tug.

The boat was empty except for its life-saving equipment.

Miss Salmark later was taken to Gabriola Island from DeCourcy before continuing home.

River Rams La Crosse Rolls Into Illinois

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — The Mississippi River lay siege to La Crosse with an all-time record flood-stage Wednesday and sent a mighty torrent southward down the 400-mile chute leading from its upper valley to a rendezvous with the Ohio River.

While the soggy city of La Crosse braced itself for a three-day crisis, little cheered by word that the river had crested at 17.7 feet instead of 18 feet, northern Illinois and Iowa struggled to build up to the challenge.

At Quincy, Ill., where levees began cracking Tuesday with the river still more than a foot below flood stage, officials reported that wrecked cars, junk and sand dumped frantically into the breaches was reducing, at least temporarily, the invading flow.

MAY USE FORCE
In Iowa, Governor Harold Hughes said he was asking an attorney-general's opinion on whether state or local authorities could legally force evacuation of private homes.

Some 60 miles below La Crosse at Prairie du Chien, last Wisconsin community of any size on the river, 20 more families were evacuated from their homes, raising to 300 the number.

U.K. Plans Known Monday

Go-Ahead Near For Steel Grab

LONDON (UPI) — The Labor government of Prime Minister Wilson will announce plans for re-nationalization of the steel industry on Monday.

Political sources said 12 firms will be named for takeover in a government White Paper. The firms form the major steel-producing part of the industry.

The old-fashioned idea of nationalizing the entire steel industry is out. Instead, the government plans to take over only the biggest and the best firms.

GIVES CONTROL
In this way, the government will gain control of 90 per cent of Britain's crude steel production and, therefore, almost complete control of the industry.

The cost of compensation to shareholders of the companies to be nationalized has been estimated by the Conservative Party at 2,000,000,000 pounds (or $3,600,000,000). The Government's opponents are expected to claim this can only be met by higher taxes.

EARLY VOTE
Wilson is expected to force an early vote on the proposals set out in the White Paper.

If the White Paper is not approved, Wilson will call an immediate general election, sources close to the government said.

The government has a majority of only three. Three Labor MPs are known to be opposed to "old-fashioned" nationalization, but government ministers believe party loyalty will prevail.

Printers Approve Contract

VANCOUVER (CP) — Printers on the Vancouver Sun and Province daily newspapers gave unanimous approval Wednesday night to a new three-year contract.

Their vote came after officials of the International Typographical Union (ITU) explained the package worked out last Friday with Pacific Press Ltd., publishers of both papers.

The settlement came with a strike threat hanging over final negotiations.
